adding Rosie, as the current path will impact the messages Samsung conveys to the DoJ and the impact of MADA on their devices, business, and users. We can discuss this on Thursday as well. thanks. Jim

Ok great, glad you're already aware Chris. Is there any particular info that would be helpful for you at this point? Any questions or concerns about the plans you've heard so far?

Hi Bryan - thanks for this. Yes, we are aware of the situation. We'll find time to chat live about it. Kate - I know we briefly touched upon this in a recent chat, but it would be great to get your steer if any of this plan is a surprise or you have potential concerns about it. We can cover that in our follow up conversation.

+Christopher Li - as you can see in this thread, there's a confidential, Need to Know project called [Redacted] that may affect Samsung. In short, due to a new law in Australia, Search features may be disabled starting Dec 3 across Australia. This includes Discover and most/all Search and Assistant functionality. If this goes through, it would obviously have a major impact across Samsung devices in AU (see a few mocks below).

There's some quick background - from here we should chat live about why this is happening and what our planned product response is. It would be great to get your input as the project unfolds. The shutdown isn't definitely going to happen, but we are planning for it all the same. This obviously isn't our ideal way to start out the new relationship with Samsung...

For now, here's my doc specific to Discover on -1.
