REPORT OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL TO THE
CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES ON THE
ADMINISTRATION OF THE FOREIGN AGENTS
REGISTRATION ACT OF 1938, AS AMENDED,
FOR THE CALENDAR YEAR 1975

TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED:

I have the honor to report on the administration of the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, as amended, pursuant to Section 11 of the Act, which requires the Attorney General from time to time to report to the Congress concerning the administration of the Act, as well as the nature, source and content of political propaganda disseminated or distributed by agents of foreign principals registered under the Act.

It has been the policy of the Department since 1950 to prepare a report each year. This report covers the administration and enforcement of the Foreign Agents Registration Act for the calendar year 1975.

STATISTICAL SUMMARY

During the year 1975, the Department received 97 new registration statements and terminated 51 registrations, leaving a total of 555 active registrations on file as of December 31, 1975. Individuals acting as officials or employees or rendering assistance to a registrant for or in the interest of the latter's foreign principal filed 782 short-form registration statements under the Act.

In this reporting year, the staff of the Registration Unit reviewed over 1,150 supplemental statements and processed 14,979 pieces of both incoming and outgoing correspondence which involved other government agencies, registrants and the general public. There were 60 agreements with new foreign principals reported by agents already registered under the Act.

ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT

Consistent with the recommendations contained in the "Report to the Committee on Foreign Relations - United States Senate - Effectiveness of the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, As Amended, And Its Administration By The Department of Justice" (B-177551) issued by the General Accounting Office on March 13, 1974, the Registration Unit, during calendar year 1975, continued its program of inspections of registrants pursuant to Section 615 of the Act. During this year, 66 such inspections of books and records were conducted by the staff. The primary purpose of all such inspections is to determine whether registrants are fully disclosing their activities and relationships on behalf of their foreign principals. In furtherance of this purpose the Unit has endeavored to conduct in-depth inspections of a broad spectrum of registrants. One series of inspections of interrelated organizations will result in the filing of a civil action in calendar year 1976 requesting amendments to statements filed with the Department which were false and misleading in that they failed to disclose the true foreign principal, the nature of the registrant and the significance of the activities engaged in by the registrant. In other cases it was determined that insufficient disclosures were being made and amendments to registration statements were obtained.

The staff of the Registration Unit devoted considerable time to the preparation of pleadings and briefs in four civil actions which were brought in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia during calendar year 1975. In Attorney General v. Covington & Burling (Civil Action No. 75-1238) an action was brought to compel the production of the registrant's books and records for inspection pursuant to Section 615. The Court is conducting an in camera review of the documents which the defendants claim fall within the attorney-client privilege. An appeal by the Department in this case has been held in abeyance pending the completion of the in camera review. In addition, the Department in Attorney General v. Daniel J. Edelman, Inc. and Edelman International Corporation (Civil Action No. 75-2041) commenced an action against the defendants for failure to register pursuant to Section 612 and for failure to file and label political propaganda transmitted to the Congress of the United States pursuant to Sections 614(a), (b) and (e). Further, in Attorney General v. DGA International, Inc. (Civil Action No. 75-2040) and Attorney General v. International Public Relations Company, Ltd. (Civil Action No. 75-2042), the Department brought actions to restrain the defendants from engaging in political activities on behalf of the foreign principal under contracts which provided fees contingent upon the success of the agents' political activities in violation of Section 618(h). The defendants in these cases consented to the entry of a preliminary injunction. The Court then heard argument on whether the final judgment should have been an extension of the preliminary injunction or a broader decree suggested by the Government, and signed the latter.

In September, 1975, a civil action styled Liberian Services, Inc. v. Edward H. Levi and Richard L. Thornburgh (Civil Action No. 75-4448), was commenced in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York to enjoin the defendants from requiring the plaintiff to register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act until the plaintiff received written notice of the grounds for "revocation" of an exemption it had claimed, and an opportunity, in a proceeding meeting the Constitutional standards of due process and the Administrative Procedure Act, to show compliance with the requirements for exemption from registration under Section 613(d). Argument in this case was heard in January, 1976, and the Court, in February granted defendants' motion for an order dismissing the complaint. In so deciding, the Court found that plaintiff would receive procedural due process in a trial of the law and the facts de novo in a court, and no administrative hearing was required by the Administrative Procedure Act. Plaintiff has filed a protective notice of appeal.

In addition, 28 field conferences were conducted to assist new registrants in fully meeting their reporting obligations under the Act.

One of the primary purposes of the Foreign Agents Registration Act is to protect the integrity of the decision-making process. In this connection, the liaison program, instituted last year with the staffs of the various Committees of the Congress which deal with foreign matters has been maintained. The aim of this program is to acquaint Committee staff members with the reporting and disclosure requirements of the Act as well as the availability of registrant filings for their use, and to obtain information relating to individuals coming to the Committees' attention who may have an obligation to register under the Act. A similar program, established last year with several agencies in the Executive Branch dealing with various matters in which there is substantial foreign interest, has also been continued.

The Department also has retained the practice of distributing copies of registration statements and supplements thereto to interested departments and agencies of the Federal Government.

NATURE, SOURCE AND CONTENT OF POLITICAL PROPAGANDA

The following is an analysis of the principal trends noted during 1975 in the propaganda material disseminated within the United States in the English language on behalf of the foreign principles and geographical areas listed. Principal publications are set forth together with the approximate circulation figures per issue.

During the year 1975, 5,725 dissemination reports were filed in connection with the distribution of over 15,037 different pieces of propaganda which were submitted.

Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen & Hamilton is registered under the Foreign Agents Registration Act as the agent of CSR Limited, the marketing agent for the Queensland Sugar Board and the Australian Sugar Industry. Barnard of the firm appeared before the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture during Committee hearings on the desirability of introducing legislation similar to the Sugar Act of 1948, which was allowed to expire at the end of 1974.

Mr. Barnard told the Committee that since the expiration of the Sugar Act, the U.S. has been dependent on the world market for its sugar imports, a market which is unstable with regard to both price and supply. He claimed that the Sugar Act had not only prevented such instability, but had also proven to be beneficial to both sugar producers and consumers: exporting nations were assured of a market and a fair price for their product, and consumers were assured adequate supplies at reasonable prices.

Mr. Barnard advised the Committee that many sugar importing nations have entered into long-term supply agreements with sugar producers, in order to insulate themselves from the fluctuations of the world market. He called attention also to the series of International Sugar Agreements that have in the past been enacted in an attempt to stabilize the world market, and noted a recent comment by the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture that the U.S. would participate in negotiations for a new International Agreement. He encouraged such U.S. participation.

Mr. Barnard also reported to the Committee on Australia's record as a sugar producer, and its dependability as an exporter.

The registrant informs the Institute of developments in the U.S. relevant to the sugar industry, including the possibility of enactment of new sugar legislation, sugar prices in the U.S., and Department of Agriculture data.

In July, 1975, Mr. Nemir presented a statement to the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture during Committee hearings on conditions in the sugar market since the 1974 expiration of the Sugar Act. In addition to his general report on the capacities of the Brazilian sugar industry, Mr. Nemir commented on an issue raised by the Committee chairman in the announcement of the hearings, which asked whether the U.S., because it has no sugar program, might be subject "to the danger of a cartel of foreign nations that produce sugar." Mr. Nemir stated that "it would be highly probable for the exporting countries to attempt some form of multi-lateral action in their own self-defense" in the absence of some meaningful legislation in the U.S., or enactment of an international agreement on sugar.

Mr. Nemir recommended that any new legislation proposed by the Committee should provide foreign nations with quotas "for extended long periods and for predictable quantities at reasonable prices."

As a part of their public relations work for the Instituto Brasileiro de Cafe, Samuel E. Stavisky & Associates, Inc. has disseminated information publicizing Mexico's position on adoption of a new International Coffee Agreement. Negotiations for the formulation of a new Agreement have reportedly included numerous guarantees to assure the importing nations of an adequate supply of coffee, so much so that from the Brazilian viewpoint the proposed agreement includes "a clear imbalance between innovations inspired by consumers and producers, to such an extent that the new pact falls short of what would be desirable from the point of view of exporting members."

Nevertheless, the coffee producing nations are willing to compromise and Mexico is anxious for implementation of an Agreement as a means towards "expanding the coffee market and, consequently, furthering trade relations among the nations."

COSTA RICA

Costa Rican Board of Trade

Statement

The Executive Director of the Costa Rican Board of Trade, Dina Dellale, presented a statement to the House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture on July 18, 1975, on the issue of the world sugar market and U.S. participation in this market. The Costa Rican sugar industry favors enactment of legislation by the Congress which would be similar to the Sugar Act of 1948, which expired in 1974.

Ms. Dellale noted that world sugar consumption has been steadily increasing, and that production and handling facilities must be expanded to keep pace with market demands. Expansion requires enormous investments, however, and producers are unwilling to risk such expenses unless they are assured a stable market. Ms. Dellale further pointed out to the Committee that several sugar importing nations are negotiating preferential marketing arrangements with producer nations because of uncertainties in the world market.

"Without legislation, traditional foreign quota participants are losing interest in the United States market which is becoming evident by commitments being made elsewhere. The sugar supply of the United States at present must be obtained from the World Market. It is only one step further, to realize the competition of price that will exist in that ever-shrinking market. For long-term security of supply, surely it becomes obvious that this can only be obtained for the United States through a quota system under legislation which contains sufficient incentive to encourage production and expansion for those countries who participate under such a system."

Ms. Dellale also reminded the Committee of Costa Rica's imports from the U.S., and of the spirit of friendship which exists between the two nations.

Thomas H. Boggs, Jr. testified before the House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture during hearings on the sugar marketing situation, on behalf of the Central American Sugar Council. The Council is composed of the private sugar associations of El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua.

All of the Council members participated in the quota system that was a part of the Sugar Act of 1948 (which expired in 1974), and all encourage the Committee to introduce new legislation of a similar nature. The Council supports such legislation because it has in the past created a stable market where reasonable prices are guaranteed over an extended time period, thus enabling producers to make long-range plans, including plans for expansion.

Council members have in the past proved to be dependable suppliers of sugar to the U.S. market. They recommend that the Committee introduce new sugar legislation that would create an adjustable quota system for a long-term period, based on a nation's ability to produce and export sugar.

International Public Relations Company, Ltd. represents Aerospatiale as a general public relations firm and disseminates material primarily to the press and media, seeking support for the Concorde supersonic aircraft.

Arthur L. Quinn and Arthur Lee Quinn presented a statement and letter to the House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture on behalf of the sugar industries of the CARICOM nations (Jamaica, Trinidad-Tobago, Guyana, Barbados and St. Kitts), Ecuador, Panama and Belize. The Committee was conducting hearings on the sugar marketing situation, and the possibility of enacting legislation to replace the Sugar Act of 1948, which expired in 1974.

Messrs. Quinn and Quinn stressed the value of the Sugar Act, and emphasized the need for enactment of new legislation to institute a quota system similar to the expired Act. They told the Committee that "the absence of a (sugar) program has left a dangerous vacuum and we firmly believe that unless this Committee recognizes the necessity of re-establishing a Federal sugar program, and assumes the lead in developing one, before long both producers and consumers alike are bound to suffer."

They also told the Committee that their foreign principals favor the U.S. quota system of importing sugar, because it is "conducive to long-term production planning and price stabilization." The demise of the Sugar Act was viewed as a "unilateral termination of a long standing preferential trading arrangement."

Messrs. Quinn and Quinn recommended that the Committee introduce new sugar legislation incorporating the positive aspects of the old Sugar Act, in addition to guaranteeing producers adequate price for their sugar, and providing "preferential treatment of sugar shipments from developing nations."

He commented on the positive aspects of the recently expired Sugar Act: foreign suppliers were guaranteed a market for their sugar and U.S. consumers were assured of a reliable source of supply, both at fair prices. He further stated that the Sugar Act was a unique piece of legislation which considered the interests of both the domestic and foreign sugar industries for a threefold purpose: to supply the U.S. market at reasonable prices; to maintain the domestic industry; and to promote U.S. export trade by buying sugar from foreign suppliers, who could then in turn purchase more U.S. goods.

Mr. Kaplan also expressed Paraguay's interest in continuing to supply the U.S. sugar market.

It also gives some historical background as to Panama's political independence, its economic development, and its relations with the U.S. since the signing of the 1903 treaty which gave the U.S. rights "in perpetuity" over the territory known as the Panama Canal Zone. The booklet states that Panama is currently seeking, through negotiations with the U.S., to regain traditional national authority over her territory (the Canal Zone). "What seemed appropriate in 1903 is not appropriate in today's world. Panama has played a service role in history as the bridge between continents and the linkage between oceans. It played this role long before the Canal, but ceased to play it meaningfully as the United States assumed total control over the passageway. In more recent times, other activities have centered on Panama which have more clearly awakened in its people the sense of identity they had long sought to regain. Today, aware of their history and aware of further enhancing the value of their most precious

It further states that the U.S. "is a Zionist-controlled nation, and that the whole machinery of the United States Government has become subservient to Zionist leaders in the United States and Israel."

The Delegation's statement charges that the objective of U.S. policy "is not to solve the Middle East problem on the basis of right, justice and international law, but to perpetuate the Zionist occupation of Palestine and help Israel occupy further Arab territories."

Mr. Trippe assured the Committee that Malawi would continue to be a dependable source of sugar for the U.S. under any new quota system enacted by the Congress. He stated that the "guaranteed market at a reasonable price upon which the United States quota system was based provided the incentives which insured that foreign producers would supply sugar to the United States even under difficult conditions, and when a greater price could be obtained elsewhere." Among the incentives derived from the U.S. quota, Mr. Trippe included increased export revenues, market stability, and the opportunity to expand sugar production.

REPUBLIC OF CHINA
(TAIWAN)

Chinese Information Service

Releases, Magazines,
Newspapers

The Chinese Information Service (CIS) is registered under the Foreign Agents Registration Act as an agent of the Chinese Government Information Office, Taipei, on whose behalf it disseminates a variety of publications covering a diverse range of domestic and international issues. News from China, a daily news bulletin issued by CIS, reports generally on international and diplomatic developments affecting the Republic of China, on the national economy, cultural and social events, and news of the Mainland. One issue of News from China reports that the editor of a U.S. newspaper, after a visit to the Mainland, characterized the residents of the Peoples' Republic of China as a "nation of wind-up dolls." He reported that the Mainlanders "get a steady mental diet of Mao thought from the cradle to the grave. They live in a closed society which shuts off outside information and ideas. And, above all, they serve a totalitarian state where, . . . the way to get along is to go along."

An article entitled "Majority of Congressmen Endorse Resolution In Support of ROC" reports that over half of the members of the U.S. House of Representatives joined in sponsorship of a resolution "calling on the U.S. government to do nothing to compromise the freedom of the Republic of China."

Other articles typical of the reporting found in News from China include: "Foreign Investments in Taiwan in Jan.-Aug. Totaled US$63M"; "Former U.S. Envoy to ROC Says Recognition of Peiping Not Inevitable"; "U.S. Writer Describes Red Tortures in Tibet"; "Chairman Chiang Urges Mainland Compatriots to Rise Up"; and "Hard Commune Life on Chinese Mainland as Depicted by London Journalist".

Finally, Mr. Myers commented on what effect resumption of economic relations with Cuba might have on the U.S. sugar market. He noted that in 1960 and 1961 several foreign suppliers, including the Philippines, had sufficient sugar stocks to meet U.S. needs. These foreign sugar producers then launched "tremendous expansion programs" to meet U.S. needs in the absence of Cuban sugar. Mr. Myers asked the Committee whether it would be "sound sugar policy now to deny such increased sugar supplies access to the United States market? Would that be an effective way of insuring future sugar supplies for the American consumer?"

PHILIPPINES

John A. O'Donnell

Statement

John A. O'Donnell, the Washington representative of the Philippine Sugar Institute, testified before the House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture on July 18, 1975, during Committee hearings on the world sugar situation. He gave a brief history of the Philippine sugar industry, noting the role played by the U.S. in its development. Mr. O'Donnell also noted the close ties that have existed between the Philippines and the U.S., emphasizing that the two governments are politically friendly, that the Philippines are in a location strategically important to the U.S., and that the Philippines are a dependable source of sugar.

Mr. O'Donnell was accompanied by Lawrence Myers, economic consultant to the Philippine Sugar Institute and formerly Director of the Sugar Division of the Department of Agriculture. Mr. Myers made several observations on the greatly fluctuating market price of sugar during the past several years, and the increase in world production of sugar in relation to world consumption. Increased production, he said, demands great expenditures of money for construction of new mills and plantation development, which investors are hesitant to commit without assurances of long-term marketing arrangements.

Mr. Myers also commented on the possible formation of a cartel by sugar exporting nations, and said that while it is doubtful such a program could be instituted successfully, enactment of legislation similar to the recently expired Sugar Act of 1948 would avoid such a situation.

The Office of the Government of the Republic of South Moluccas is registered under the Foreign Agents Registration Act as the agent of the People of the Republic of South Moluccas in the South Moluccan Republic. The registrant's purpose in the U.S. is to publicize the struggle of the Republic of South Moluccas to gain independence from Indonesia, and to enlist the aid and support of the U.S. and other democratic countries throughout the world in this cause.

The registrant has disseminated various releases and reprinted news articles publicizing the history of their struggle for political independence. One of these articles explains that South Moluccas declared its independence in 1950 because of the "usurping power by Sukarno who was then embarking on a course aimed at liquidating by force the original 16 federal states (United States of Indonesia) and claiming authority over all of Indonesia." South Moluccas had been a part of the United States of Indonesia, a federation of states under which the national right of self-determination was retained by the people. They declared independence in the face of the establishment of a unitary state, in which one State would dominate all others which had been a part of the federation.

Another article disseminated by the registrant charges that Indonesia's actions towards Portuguese Timor are the same tactics used by Indonesia twenty five years ago to "colonize the South Moluccan People."

The Rhodesian Information Office disseminated numerous other publications on life in Rhodesia, such as: The New Environment, which describes townships being developed for the country's growing African urban population; Rhodesia in Brief, which contains basic information on the country's history, geography, industrial development, etc.; The Man and His Ways, which describes the customs and beliefs observed by Rhodesian tribespeople; and African Education, a description of the system of African education in Rhodesia.

THAILAND

Scott C. Whitney

Statement

Scott C. Whitney represented the Government of Thailand before the House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture during hearings on the condition of the sugar market and the possible need for new sugar legislation. He reminded the Committee that during their 1974 hearings on the proposed extension of the Sugar Act, he had presented Thailand's request for an increase of some 85,000 tons per year under any new quota allocations which were initiated by the Congress. He reiterated Thailand's eagerness to be included in any new legislation enacted, and assured the Committee of the nation's reputation as a reliable, stable producer. Mr. Whitney stressed the importance of sugar production in Thailand's predominantly agricultural economy, and stated that participation in an assured marketing situation, where stable prices are guaranteed, is essential to Thailand's planned expansion of their sugar industry.

SWAZILAND

Justice M. Chambers

Justice M. Chambers, representing the Swaziland Sugar Association, testified before the House of Representatives Committee on Agriculture in July, 1975. The Committee hearings focused on the sugar situation, and consideration as to whether new legislation should be introduced to replace the Sugar Act of 1948, which was allowed to expire in 1974.

Mr. Chambers gave the Committee a brief history of Swaziland's political independence, explained Swaziland's relations with other African nations and its political position in the world today, and detailed the economic and industrial progress that is taking place in that nation. He stressed the important role of the sugar industry in Swaziland's economic and social development: in addition to being the largest single employer in Swaziland, the sugar industry is also responsible for sponsoring a program to establish a network of independent farmers; provides training in modern industrial and agricultural methods; and provides schooling, recreation, housing and medical services for employees.

On behalf of the Swaziland Sugar Association, Mr. Chambers strongly urged the Committee to introduce legislation similar to the old Sugar Act, and to provide nations such as Swaziland which have been "reliable, stable and consistent suppliers" with a quota entitlement for a reasonably long period of time.

The principal purpose of Congress in enacting the Foreign Agents Registration Act was to insure that the Government and the people of the United States would be informed of the identity of persons engaging in propaganda activities and other activities for or on behalf of foreign governments, foreign political parties, and other foreign principals. To achieve this purpose, Congress requires public disclosure by such persons in order that their statements and actions may be appraised in the light of their associations and activities. The Department of Justice in fulfilling its responsibilities under the Act relies upon its program of inspections pursuant to Section 615 (22 U.S.C. 615), its normal sources of information and upon the investigative efforts of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Registration under the Act does not imply recognition by the United States Government either of the de jure existence or legality of the foreign principal, nor does registration indicate approval by the United States Government of the propaganda material disseminated or of the activities of the registered agent.

Respectfully submitted,

Attorney General

about the situation in Saigon: "After the total collapse of the U.S.-installed army and administration, the revolutionary rule has quickly re-established law and order, expanded the revolutionary force, ensured normal traffic in the cities and gradually eradicated the traces of an alien and decadent culture, social evils and crimes. It has supplied materials and fuel to various industrial establishments to help them resume operation and create jobs for millions of unemployed, and given encouragement, guidance and assistance to millions of other labouring people to carry on and further expand traditional crafts."

China Books and Periodicals

Magazine, Newspapers

China Books and Periodicals disseminates various publications on behalf of Xunhasaba, Hanoi, Vietnam. Vietnam Courier is a monthly news magazine published in Hanoi, which is disseminated by China Books and Periodicals approximately six months after publication date. Because of this delay, most of the news during 1975 concerned the fighting in Vietnam, and it was only towards the very end of the year that news of the cessation of fighting and the North's control over the South, which occurred in April, was disseminated. In reporting developments in the North and South, the magazine was, of course, severely critical of U.S. policies and presence in Southeast Asia, and of the Saigon government and administration. The magazine also reported news from the "liberated" areas of South Vietnam, the historical background of liberation struggles in Vietnam, developments in Cambodia and Thailand, allegations of torture of Saigon's political prisoners, growing discontent in Saigon, and agricultural advances made in the North.

An article entitled "Thailand Remains a War Base" charges that the Thailand government has, for more than ten years, allowed the country to serve as an air and supply base for U.S. troops, thus proving themselves to be "effective accomplices of the U.S. in its aggressive war against the countries of Indochina." Another article, "The American Peace Forces Continue the Struggle" commends anti-war groups in the U.S. who campaigned to have Congress cut funding for the South Vietnamese government.

An editorial comment in the June, 1975 issue of Vietnam Courier declared that the "liberation of Saigon and the South is the crowning achievement of thirty years of uninterrupted
