REPORT OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES ON THE
ADMINISTRATION OF THE FOREIGN AGENTS
REGISTRATION ACT OF 1938, AS AMENDED,
FOR THE CALENDAR YEAR 1973

TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED:

I have the honor to report on the administration of the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, as amended, pursuant to Section 11 of the Act, which requires the Attorney General from time to time to report to the Congress concerning the administration of the Act, as well as the nature, source and content of political propoganda disseminated or distributed by agents of foreign principals registered under the Act.

It has been the policy of the Department since 1950 to prepare a report each year. This report covers the administration and enforcement of the Foreign Agents Registration Act for the calendar year 1973.

STATISTICAL SUMMARY

During the year 1973, the Department received 88 new registration statements and terminated 73 registrations, leaving a total of 496 active registrations on file as of December 31, 1973. Individuals acting as officials or employees or rendering assistance to a registrant for or in the interest of the latter's foreign principal filed 654 short-form registration statements under the Act.

In this reporting year, the staff of the Registration Unit reviewed 927 supplemental statements and processed 13,917 pieces of both incoming and outgoing correspondence which involved other government agencies, registrants and the general public. There were 189 agreements with new foreign principals reported by agents already registered under the Act.

ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT

In the administration of this Act, the Department employs normal administrative procedures to effect compliance with its provisions while necessary investigative actions are conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Statements and exhibits filed by registrants are carefully reviewed by staff attorneys to determine their conformity with the disclosure provisions of the Act, with the consequence that requests by the Department for additional information or other corrective action resulted during this year in the submission of 355 amendments to active registrations.

In addition, information provided by government agencies or obtained from public sources is also reviewed and considered by staff attorneys to determine whether the various provisions of the Act would be applicable.

The Department also continued the practice of distributing copies of registration statements and supplements thereto to interested departments and agencies of the Federal Government.

NATURE, SOURCE AND CONTENT OF POLITICAL PROPAGANDA

The following is a analysis of the principal trends noted during 1973 in the propaganda material disseminated within the United States in the English language on behalf of the foreign principals and geographical areas listed. Principal publications are set forth together with the approximate circulation figures per issue.

During the year 1973, 6,259 dissemination reports were filed in connection with the distribution of 12,240 different pieces of propaganda which were submitted.

ARAB NATIONS

Arab Information Center	Palestine Digest Booklets and Reprints	2000-4000 Various
Palestine Arab Delegation	Letters & Releases	Various
Palestine Liberation Organization	Booklets	Various

The Arab Information Center disseminated various materials throughout 1973, all of which dealt with developments between Israel and the Arab States. The materials are uniformly critical of Israel and those nations which aided the Israeli cause. Palestine Digest is a monthly magazine publication of the League of Arab States, Arab Information Center. It is composed of reprints of newspaper and magazine articles as well as editorials dealing with the Middle East. One of the overriding issues of concern voiced through Palestine Digest during 1973 was continued Israeli occupation of Arab lands which were seized during the 1967 war. There were reports of Israeli's gradual annexation of territories on the West Bank, Golan Heights, Gaza and the Sinai Peninsula. Palestine Digest reported that in March, 1973, Israel was condemned by the United Nations Human Rights Commission for its actions in the occupied territories, specifically the creation of "colonies" of Israelis in the areas. Reportedly, the Commission was "profoundly troubled over the destruction of homes, the expropriation of Arab possessions, the deplorable treatment inflicted on prisoners and the plundering of the region's archaeological heritage and the exploitation of its natural resources."

On the issue of occupied territories, Palestine Digest reported further that the Israeli government was planning to provide for "public and private purchase of land by Israelis in the occupied Arab territories and the establishment of additional Israeli settlements in the territories." Such action would likely have a "profound impact" on any peace negotiations undertaken, states Palestine Digest, in view of Arab demands for the return of all territories occupied by Israel since the 1967 war.

Articles dealing with the following topics were also included in Palestine Digest:

PALESTINE - "Egypt said today (June 7, 1973) that there could be no stability in the Middle East until the Palestinian refugees, many of whom continue to live in refugee camps, were given their own sovereign state, whose borders they themselves should help draw."

OIL EMBARGO - "In view of the unilateral action on the part of the U.S. to resupply Israel with weapons while the Arabs were struggling to liberate their occupied lands, the Arab countries have decided to halt all supplies of crude oil and its refined products to the U.S. and the Netherlands and to any other country which backs the Israeli aggression.

"This course of action will hold until such time when the Israeli forces are totally withdrawn from all occupied Arab territories and the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people are restored."

The Palestine Arab Delegation disseminated several letters and releases during 1973, all detailing their position on Israel and the Middle East.

A September 7, 1973 letter to Senator J. William Fulbright expressed opposition to the appointment of Dr. Henry Kissinger as Secretary of State. "Under the influence of Dr. Henry Kissinger, United States Middle East policy completely ignores the economic, political and strategic interests of the United States, and is solely based on the interests of 'Israel' and international Zionism." The letter continues that "Dr. Kissinger is a Zionist, and . . . he will use his influence and power in the Administration not only to continue the biased United States Middle East policy, but also to involve the United States further and further in the Zionist colonial expansionist objectives, which are bound to involve the United States militarily in the Middle East."

The Palestine Liberation Organization disseminated brochures advocating the return of Palestinian refugees to their homeland. The group claims that its goal is "the creation (in Palestine) of a democratic, non-sectarian state where Christians, Jews and Moslems can live, work and worship without discrimination."

Sydney Morrell & Company, Inc.	Australia Newsletter	4000

Australia Newsletter is compiled and published ten times per year by Sydney Morrell & Company, Inc., on behalf of the Victoria Promotion Committee, Melbourne, Victoria, Australia. A statement on the front cover of the publication invites visiting businessmen "to use the facilities made available by the Victoria Promotion Committee at no cost to assist them in assessing the investment potential of the country and of the State of Victoria in particular."

The following quotes are representative of material contained in Australia Newsletter.

INVESTMENT ADVANTAGES - "By initiating local assembly or manufacture here (Victoria), you provide yourself with a base in a friendly, politically stable country from which to market through an area of the world where there is a developing demand for capital and consumer goods, but where marketing requires a good local knowledge for success."

AVAILABILITY OF NATURAL GAS - "On the national scene, the availability of a domestic reserve of power sources has meant a further reduction of dependence on oil imports and huge savings in foreign payments. In addition to this, Victoria's gas prices, which are fixed through 1989, have been rapidly passed by world prices and prices in contracts with 'escalation' clauses geared to inflation and world prices."

U.S. COMPANIES IN AUSTRALIA - "A survey conducted by the American Chamber of Commerce in Australia among its member companies indicated a rise in export earnings of U.S. subsidiaries in Australia . . ."

"Between the years 1967 and 1971, the AmCham survey revealed that the average annual percentage increase in exports was about 29 percent - a faster rate and higher value than dividends repatriated overseas.

"The latest incomplete count by AmCham shows more than 100 U.S. concerns using Australia as a regional nerve center for their Asian-Pacific operations."

New South Wales Centre disseminated numerous booklets inviting foreign investors to the area. New South Wales: A Handbook for Investors is such a publication, providing a survey of the economic and industrial potential of the area. Prepared by the Department of Decentralisation and Development, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, the Handbook offers charts and text to inform the reader of economic conditions, overseas investment and trade, taxation, industrial conditions, industrial and commercial land and building costs, and the availability of fuel, power and transportation. The Handbook invites foreign investors, particularly those with the skill and "know-how" to aid in the balanced development of the area's resources, and promises that "There is every reason to expect that the Australian economy will continue to expand in the years to come and that there will be many opportunities, open to both overseas and local enterprises, for the profitable investment of capital."

Other publications disseminated by the New South Wales Centre include:

Establishing a Business in Australia
Australia In Brief
Business Man's Guide to Australia

Australian Science Newsletter, Australian Economic Newsletter, Australian Weekly News Roundup and Australian Daily News are all general information publications, aimed at the general reading public.

Australia Now is a magazine type publication, which appeared in three issues during 1973. The magazine featured articles on art, industry, sports and science.

News Releases

Various

Infoplan International, Inc., issued news releases throughout the year on behalf of Communications Affiliates (Bahamas) Ltd., on behalf of the Government of the Bahamas. Among the topics covered by the releases were the appointments of various Bahamian ambassadors, and Bahamian fiscal policies. In addition, the releases were addressed to the March, 1973 visit of Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling to the U.S., and the Prime Minister's September 1973 statement regarding allegations made about him before a committee of the U.S. Senate.

BARBADOS

Barbados Industrial Development Corporation	Pamphlets	Various
Policano/Rothholz, Inc.	Press Releases	Various
Van Brunt & Company Advertising-Marketing, Inc.	Advertising	Various

According to the pamphlet Investing In Barbados, which is disseminated by the Barbados Industrial Development Corporation (BIDC), BIDC is a government agency whose function it is to encourage and develop new industry and hotels on the Island, with an aim towards improving the economy of the area through increasing employment and exports, decreasing the need for imports and raising productivity and efficiency. BIDC assists new businessmen in locating factory sites, applying for benefits under the Incentive Laws, recruiting and training employees, and preparing applications for work permits. The pamphlet explains the provisions of the Incentive Laws, including a ten year tax holiday, which is followed by a company tax rate of only 12½%, and duty-free importation of materials and equipment to be used in the manufacturing process.

BIDC also disseminated a series of eleven pamphlets entitled Barbados: A Special Survey for Businessmen, Parts I-XI, which is designed to provide enough detailed information "to enable one who has never seen Barbados to carry out a sound preliminary study of the project he proposes." A separate pamphlet is devoted to each of the following topics: general information, industrial development, tourist industry, government and public services, communications (passenger, freight, speech), utilities and fuels, agriculture - lands - fisheries, labour survey, taxation, starting a business, and a business directory.

Policano/Rothholz, Inc., issues press releases on behalf of the Barbados Industrial Development Corporation. The majority of the releases in 1973 were concerned with promotional meetings held for American businessmen throughout the U.S. to explain "Operation Beehive", a Barbadian incentive program geared to attract foreign investors. Another of the releases announced plans for a "Barbados Business Opportunities Week" to be held early in 1974 in Barbados. The purpose of this plan is to have American businessmen travel to

Barbados for "a first hand look at the enormous growth the country has experienced in manufacturing and (an opportunity) to learn about the unique opportunities present for American manufacturing."

Van Brunt & Company Advertising-Marketing, Inc., prepares and places advertisements on behalf of the Barbados Industrial Development Corporation. The advertisements, addressed to the business community, are designed to attract industrial investment by publicizing industrial sites, transportation and communication systems, and tax benefits. The advertisements are placed in selected newspapers and magazines around the nation.

CANADA

Government of Ontario Canada	Pamphlets and Brochures	Various
Quebec Government House	Quebec 73 Pamphlets and Reprints	220 Various

Quebec 73, the monthly economic bulletin of the Quebec Department of Industry and Commerce, was the only regularly published item to be received from the registrants representing Canadian interests. The bulletin reported the latest industrial advances and facilities designed to promote economic growth, such as the new Montreal International Airport, Mirabel, scheduled to open in 1975 as the largest airport area in the world. Other articles were concerned with expansion of industrial facilities, and product development and improvement.

Additional materials disseminated by these two registrants were on a sporadic basis. While there was a considerable volume of material to attract industrial investors, numerous general information and tourist materials were also distributed.

Ontario Canada Working With You, a pamphlet disseminated on behalf of the Business Development Division, Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism, outlines services available to new industries and manufacturers, to aid them in selling "goods and services on a competitive basis in both the foreign and domestic markets."

Ontario Facts and Figures is a leaflet which describes Ontario as "the second largest of Canada's 10 provinces, the nation's geographic and industrial heartland and its richest market Ontario is one of the few regions in the world containing all the elements basic to the development of a modern, diversified industrial economy. It boasts valuable raw materials and minerals, abundant water supply, low-cost power, fertile agricultural land and abounding tourist attractions."

Doing Business In Ontario Canada is prepared for the information of any investor or company who is considering establishing a business concern in Ontario. The booklet is designed to furnish relevant information on the following areas: business climate and organizations, labor, taxes, Canadian customs duties, government assistance to industry, and general information on patents, trade marks, utilities, banks, etc. The booklet states that both the federal and provincial governments are concerned for the "sound industrial growth" of the area. "An attractive investment climate is maintained, complemented by positive incentive measures geared to the needs of industry and to the requirements for a maximum rate of growth on the basis of available resources." Additional programs of financial assistance are available from the Ontario Government for those industries which locate in "slow-growth" or less-developed areas of the province.

Quebec Government House disseminated several items which were reprints from other publications, including a magazine article entitled "To Sell or To Conserve". This article deals with the Canadian abundance of natural reserves of energy, and the current debate among Canadians as to whether these reserves should be kept to meet their own needs, which may arise years from now, or sold to the U.S. for immediate consumption. Questions concerning environment vs pipeline, imports vs exports, and the future need for oil vs the use of nuclear or solar energy are debated.

Peking Review, a weekly political and theoretical publication, was the most comprehensive political propaganda organ of the People's Republic of China disseminated in the U.S. Distributed by Henry H. Noyes on behalf of Guozi Shudian (the China Publications Centre) of Peking, Peking Review contains reports on construction of the socialist revolution in China, China's views on international questions, and reprints of official PRC documents and statements. The major target of criticism by Peking Review throughout 1973 was the Soviet Union for "revisionist" tactics. American presence and/or influence in Vietnam, Cambodia, Korea, Israel and other nations of the world was also soundly criticized as "imperialist aggression."

SOVIET UNION - The extent of the attack on the Soviet Union is evident in selections from several issues of Peking Review. One article criticized Soviet leaders for the poor living conditions and general welfare of the workers. The cause of these poor conditions, according to the Peking Review, is that "the revisionist line they (Soviet leaders) push has destroyed the socialist economic base and hampered the development of the productive forces; their social-imperialist policy of aggression and expansion, moreover, has added an unbearable burden to the Soviet economy. They are engaged in rabid arms expansion and war preparations and advocate that 'the problem of national defense should be put above all'."

An article entitled "The Longer the Occupation the Tighter the Noose" is concerned with the Soviet's five year occupation of Czechoslovakia. Peking Review charges that the Soviet Union is "slithering farther and farther down the road of social-imperialism and vigorously pursuing hegemonism and power politics in a feverish endeavour to maintain its colonial system." The article continues to describe conditions prevailing during the occupation: "The past five years have witnessed ruthless suppression of the just struggle of the Czechoslovak people against aggression and massive purges at all levels throughout Czechoslovakia by the Soviet revisionists."

VIET NAM PEACE - Peking Review welcomed the signing of the peace agreement, and congratulated the "tenacious revolutionary spirit and dauntless heroism" of the Vietnamese freedom fighters in their victory over American "aggression". "The signing of the Viet Nam agreement has shown once again that a just cause is invincible. War waged by oppressed nations and countries subjected to aggression to resist foreign aggression and to win independence and liberation is a just war. Aggression and oppression by the hegemonists are unjust. So long as the oppressed nations and countries subjected to aggression dare to take up arms, unite as one, and persevere in fighting, they can certainly defeat foreign aggression and be masters of their own destiny."

Articles on internal Chinese affairs included efforts to discredit former leader Lin Piao and his "anti-Party clique," described as "out and out renegades to Marxism and inveterate enemies of the dictatorship of the proletariat."

China Reconstructs is a monthly magazine published in English, French, Spanish, Arabic and Russian by the China Welfare Institute. Articles covering diverse aspects of life in the People's Republic of China were fully illustrated with both color and black and white photographs. Topics of concern throughout 1973 included: advances in medicine, industry and agricultural production; international contacts including sporting events, the visit of the Philadelphia Orchestra to the People's Republic of China and the Chinese journalists' visit to the U.S.; the growth of educational opportunities in People's Republic of China; and a regularly featured Chinese language lesson.

China Pictorial is another fully illustrated monthly magazine, which is published in 16 languages. This publication carries many of the same items as appear in China Reconstructs and Peking Review. Articles appearing in China Pictorial during 1973 include: "The Tenth National Congress of the Communist Party of China"; "Kailan-Now That The Workers Have Become Masters"; "New Look At Chungshan College"; "Application of Laser Technology".

The Call is a quarterly magazine, edited and published by the Afro-Asian Writers Bureau. The Bureau is located in the Republic of Sri Lanka, its Executive Secretariat in Peking. The Call contained items on the following topics: folk-tales of the people's victories over oppression; stories of individual freedom fighters and their reasons for joining the struggle; the Palestinian struggle for their homeland against Israeli, U.S. and Soviet forces; educational developments in Africa; and poetry by Ho Chi Minh.

They (Soviets) have vigorously pressed ahead with 'economic integration' to intensify their plunder and exploitation of Czechoslovakia. They have compelled Czechoslovakia to 'co-ordinate' her foreign policy and activity with theirs, not tolerating the least disobedience. In a word, they continue to regard Czechoslovakia as their vassal state and colony."

Another article, written by the Chairman of the Communist Party of Australia, charges in its title that the "Soviet Union Is An Imperialist Power". It states: "The Soviet revisionists took up the task in which the open imperialists had failed. The Soviet revisionists, in the name of socialism and communism, attacked People's China and made military attacks on her and prepared for more military attacks....But why attack People's China? There are various reasons. The Soviet revisionists have betrayed socialism; anyone and particularly any country that upholds socialism as China and Albania do, earns their particular enmity."

MIDDLE EAST WAR - Several articles in Peking Review condemn what they term as Israeli aggression as the cause of the October, 1973 war. Peking Review charges that Israel, with the "support and connivance of the superpowers" (U.S. and U.S.S.R.), hopes to expand its occupation of Arab territories and further impose its will upon the Arab nations. "U.S. imperialism has all along been backing Israeli Zionism and providing it with a constant flow of massive military aid. While claiming its 'consistent support' for the struggle of the Arab people, Soviet revisionist social-imperialism has allowed large numbers of Soviet Jews to emigrate to Israel as manpower support. It is also prepared to restore diplomatic relations with Israel. Soviet revisionism which has given the Arab countries some arms, restrains them from recovering their lost territories and tries in every way to bind the limbs of the Arab countries and people. Soviet revisionism and U.S. imperialism are contending and colluding with each other in the Middle East, leaving the Middle East question unsettled for a long time; they also exploit the situation to preserve their spheres of influence and expand them. Israel's unbridled aggression is exactly the logical result of this policy of the superpowers."

CAMBODIA - Considerable space was afforded the war in Cambodia, and the relative positions of opposing leaders Norodom Sihanouk and the "traitorous Lon Nol Clique." Peking Review states, "The arch-traitor Lon Nol who has tried frantically to suppress the people and stepped up his fascist dictatorial rule, is in total isolation, opposed by the masses and deserted by his followers. Three years ago he staged a reactionary coup d'etat in an attempt to overthrow the Royal Government of Cambodia led by Samdech Sihanouk, but the result is just the reverse. Today, the raging flames of the war against U.S. aggression and for national salvation of the Cambodian people are spreading and fiercely burning under the Lon Nol Clique's feet....The days of this handful of the scum of the nation who wreck the country and ruin the people are numbered."

Free China Weekly, a newspaper published in Taipei, Taiwan, reports on trade policies, foreign investment, and industrial growth and developments in Taiwan, in addition to articles on overseas Chinese. Particular attention is focused on the mainland, with many articles describing living conditions there. The newspaper also expressed concern over U.S. relations with the mainland, and printed the following statement by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs:

"The regime now occupying the Chinese mainland, which is oppressive at home and aggressive abroad, is a rebel group and has no right whatsoever to represent the Chinese people. The Government of the Republic of China will consider null and void any understanding or agreement reached between the United States Government and the Chinese Communist regime, that involves the rights and interests of the government and people of the Republic of China.

"The Government of the Republic of China wishes also to declare that the Chinese Communist regime is the public enemy of all the people of China. To destroy the tyrannical Chinese Communist regime is a sacred responsibility of the Government of the Republic of China and the Chinese people at home and abroad. The position will never change under any circumstances."

Free China Feature Service is a semi-monthly publication, with articles datelined Taiwan and various U.S. cities. Articles are concerned mainly with events on Taiwan and statements by representatives of the Republic of China. Topics included:

Economic Growth - Dr. I - Shuan Sun, a Republic of China financial expert, said on a tour promoting U.S. investment in Taiwan that "There is ample evidence showing how a foreign investment can harvest a sizeable amount of profit."

"The Republic of China's foreign trade continued its spectacular growth in the first seven months of 1973 with its two-way volume totaling $4,131.4 million, according to the Ministry of Finance."

MAINLAND - Republic of China Ambassador James C. H. Shen told a California audience that his nation "will not cease its struggle against Maoism until freedom is restored to the enslaved millions on the mainland." He said further, "With its creditable record of economic, political, financial and social achievements, it is my firm conviction that the Republic of China on Taiwan has increasingly become a symbol of hope and freedom, stability and vitality, to all the freedom-loving Chinese everywhere."

News From China is a daily news report from Taipei. In addition to articles about Taiwan, considerable coverage was afforded the mainland, industrial developments, relations with the U.S. and trade expansion.

U.S. RELATIONS - "In a daylong conference on American trade and investment with the Republic of China, a group of American and Chinese scholars, business leaders, and government officials today agreed that the future of relations between the two countries is very promising.

"The consensus was that with the accelerating economy and political and social stability in free China, trade with the United States is bound to expand in future and investment by American business firms in Taiwan is bound to be profitable."

MAINLAND REFUGEES - "Despite the tightening of border control by the Chinese Communists, the flow of refugees from the Communist - held China mainland to the British colony (Hongkong) has never abated. In 1972 alone, 24,100 Chinese refugee arrivals were detected by the Hongkong police. According to conservative estimates, for every refugee detected by the police, three others must have entered the British colony unnoticed. This was the highest record since the May exodus in 1962 when some 70,000 refugees fled the Chinese mainland in that month alone.

"The fact that the recent escapees from the Chinese mainland were overwhelmingly young men and women who had been brought up by strict Communist indoctrination is ample proof that even the young people can hardly bear the tyrannical Communist rule on the China mainland any longer."

Report on Mainland China was published twice during 1973. One issue, entitled "A Personnel Analysis of the Tenth CCP Central Committee" discusses which factions are currently in positions of dominance. The other issue is a profile of Huang Chen, head of Peking's "liaison office" in Washington D.C.

Report states that "Huang Chen seems to fit the shoes of a Chinese Communist agent who is expected to sell Peiping's smiling-face diplomacy in the most important capital of the free world. If past record is any guide, he will repeat what he has practiced in Jakarta in infiltrating the large overseas Chinese community and wielding a tremendous influence in the splinter Maoist groups such as the Progressive Labor Party for the ultimate purpose of subversion. He will also take advantage of the diplomatic niceties which he learned in Paris, and try to exert his talents to establish contacts with the large number of radical leftist elements against the establishment as well as to infiltrate the thriving Chinese communities and the pro-Peiping youths and intellectuals among overseas Chinese in the United States."

Background On China was published 19 times during 1973 by the Chinese Information Service. In addition to containing information on the Republic of China, Background On China also reprinted various articles from the official Communist news agency, Hsinhua, in Peking. The Hsinhua articles, monitored in Taiwan, were published for the benefit of students of Chinese Communist affairs.

The Chinese Investment and Trade Office disseminated a series of some 25 pamphlets described as the Taiwan Investment Climate Package. Each of the pamphlets is designed to attract overseas investors to Taiwan. Some of the titles include:

A Brief Introduction to the Industrial Districts in Taiwan, Republic of China

Overseas Investment in the Republic of China

Tax Incentives for Investment in the Republic of China

Statute for Encouragement of Investment

Investors Guide

Economic Progress and Investment Climate in the Republic of China

Disseminations by Hugh C. Newton were almost exclusively letters to the editors of newspapers, with attached news releases or press clippings reporting on the Republic of China. Samples of the information contained in these letters follow:

"...It must be realized that the difference between Taipei and Peiping is not one of personality or of political power. It is one of incompatible ideologies and systems. It is a question of choice between free enterprise and people's communes, between personal liberties and total regimentation, between what strives to be an open society and what is already a closed society."

"As a result of the changes in American foreign policy, free China has suffered a series of diplomatic setbacks in the last 18 months. But its government and people have met the challenge calmly, and continue to stand firmly on the side of the free world. They are confident that, with resolve and endeavor, they can successfully defend their own freedom."

Political propaganda disseminated by the International Sino-American Trade Association during 1973 consisted of reports on U.S. trade policy, and two statements presenting ISATA's views to the U.S. Tariff Commission and the House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee. ISATA, representing the Board of Foreign Trade, Taipei, is comprised of "firms and individuals interested in the development of trade and investment between the United States and the Republic of China (Taiwan)."

Chinese Literature is a monthly booklet publication which contains stories, poems and art. Almost all features in Chinese Literature are designed to stress some political thought.

Numerous other booklets were disseminated throughout the year, including:

New Women In New China

Resolutely Back Vietnamese People In Carrying War Against U.S. Aggression And For National Salvation to Complete Victory

Colombia Today is a monthly newsletter published by the Colombia Information Service to present "basic background information on the country with emphasis on current economic conditions and the atmosphere for foreign investment." Topics include tourism, exports, economic development programs, and the Andean Pact Group, an arrangement between Colombia, Peru, Chile, Bolivia and Ecuador which will eventually lead to a common market. Colombia Today reports that the nation has made progress towards its goal of expanding production facilities and diversification of exports in an effort to reduce the country's dependence on coffee earnings. Export incentives and preferential tax treatment have been initiated to encourage the non-traditional exports.

Colombia Information Service also distributed various pamphlets throughout 1973, including: Colombia the Economy, Colombia Government Structures and Institutions, and Colombia Foreign Investment.

Roy Duffus Associates, Inc., issued press releases throughout the year on behalf of the Colombia Information Center. Most of the releases previewed articles printed in Colombia Today, the Colombia Information Service newsletter.

FRANCE

France Actuelle	France Actuelle	8720
French Industrial Development Agency	Booklets	Various

France Actuelle was a monthly bulletin providing information on modern France and French affairs, with emphasis on business and industrial news. The bulletin was terminated in September, 1973 by its publishers, Comite France - Actuelle, because it had achieved its goal of informing Americans that France "has become one of the most dynamic industrial and trading nations in the world." The nature of trade relations between the U.S. and the European Community was a topic of concern to the bulletin. The French Ambassador to the U.S. was quoted as saying the Western powers had a choice: "either they go in for an absurd economic war and destroy each other, or they secure their complementary prosperity by taking advantage of their respective progress. . . . A priority is negotiations toward the restoration of international monetary order and, parallel to this, trade negotiations with the major goal of expanding international trade."

The French Industrial Development Agency disseminated three booklets. The first, entitled DATAR Newsletter from France, is a quarterly publication of the French Territorial Development Board (DATAR). The bulletin explains the purpose of DATAR, which is "to promote the economic growth of all regions of France and specifically to welcome, assist and guide foreign investors interested in gaining a foothold in Europe." The newsletter reported on various regions of the country, setting forth industrial conditions and progress made in the fields of communication, transportation, etc., which would encourage further industrialization.

The other two booklets disseminated by FIDA are: Summary of French Tax System and Investment Incentives in France. These booklets describe incentives available to investors such as: regional development grants; exemption from local business tax; etc.

GERMANY

Paul G. Langfeld	Brochures	Various
Roy Blumenthal International Associates, Inc.	Berlin Business Barometer	3422-4522
	Press Releases	Various

Paul G. Langfeld disseminated various brochures throughout 1973 on behalf of the "Free and Hanseatic City of Hamburg," described as being the leading seaport and largest industrial city in Germany. Hamburg's attractions for investors include: "the network of efficient transportation routes that connect Hamburg . . . with all parts of Europe"; "the industrial tradition that shows itself in the extremely wide range of production industries"; "the large number of specialised commercial services of all types"; and "the city's world wide communications, which have resulted in Hamburg developing into the most important transportation centre in Germany."

Hamburg: Preferred European Location for the World's Industrial Giants states: "As a major industrial city in Europe, a metropolis with the oldest and largest free port in the world . . . Hamburg offers unlimited advantages for building a plant, engaging in a joint venture or operating a sales office. Four-way transportation accommodations (Water, Rail, Truck, Air) make all of Europe easily accessible. Thousands of acres of new industrial sites are available in the port region. A complete, well-trained labor pool assures building confidence and efficient operation. A cooperative Civic Government (no red tape) prevents costly delays and hold-ups. In fact - the City of Hamburg provides all the necessary components to build, expand and through its State owned Landesbank assist in financing a highly profitable European trade."

Two issues of Berlin Business Barometer were disseminated by Roy Blumenthal International Associates, Inc., on behalf of the City State of West Berlin. Both of these publications focused on the concept of a "Global City" of the future. The "Global City" will be a center for the most advanced technology, communication, and transportation, and for continually growing international money markets. Berlin Business Barometer foresees West Berlin as becoming one of these cities of the future.

British-American Tradenevs is a monthly newsletter published and disseminated by the British-American Chamber of Commerce in an effort to promote and encourage good trade relationships between the two nations. The Chamber, which is composed of half British and half American membership works for the interests of both countries by gathering information, coordinating joint efforts, etc. In commenting on American attitudes toward trade, the newsletter termed the Nixon Administration's Trade Reform Act of 1973 "a necessary first step to enable the USA to meet changing patterns and new world needs of economic interdependence. It provides appropriate authority for the US Administration to participate effectively in multilateral trade negotiations which start this fall. . . . It is an essential broadening of authority towards stimulation of USA economic growth."

Other disseminations by the British-American Chamber of Commerce included telegrams to New York State Legislators opposing a "Buy American" bill, and correspondence with the U.S. Tariff Commission regarding new regulations.

The Policy and Reference Division of the British Information Service issued 24 reports on the United Kingdom Economy, including Monthly Reports on the Economic Situation. The monthly reports focused on the volume of imports and exports, industrial production, employment rate, investment growth, consumer expenditure and other economic factors. The reports noted expansion of demand and output during the first quarter of 1973, with retail sales and industrial production up, exports markedly increased and a decline in unemployment. There was an "easing in the growth of demand and activity" during the second quarter of the year, with the growth rate never regaining the exceptional rate of early 1973. The final report of the year did not yet reflect any significant effects of the Arab oil embargo or the sharp increase in fuel prices, although the strict monetary measures instituted in November had caused a sharp rise in U.K. interest rates.

Policy Background and Policy Statements reflect the British Government reaction to and policy on developments affecting the Commonwealth. Issues of major concern throughout 1973 were developments in Northern Ireland, economic conditions, trade relations and internal developments. Policy Statements are generally transcripts or quotes from speeches delivered or statements issued by British officials.

Policy Background summarized a British White Paper on "Northern Ireland Constitutional Proposals" in March, 1973. The White Paper outlines a new constitutional plan for the government of Northern Ireland, including the election of a new Northern Ireland Assembly.

"Under the proposed settlement, Northern Ireland will continue to have a greater degree of self-government than any other part of the U.K. . .

"To all those who support the continued union with Great Britain, the proposals offer firm assurances that this union will endure and be defended, for as long as that is the wish of a majority of the people of Northern Ireland. . .

"To all those who seek the unification of Ireland by consent, but are genuinely prepared to work for the welfare of Northern Ireland, the proposals offer the opportunity to play no less a part in the life and public affairs of Northern Ireland than is open to their fellow citizens. . .

"To all, whatever their religious or their political beliefs, the proposals extend effective protection against any arbitrary or discriminatory use of power." (The Assembly was elected in June, 1973, and scheduled to assume constitutional authority January 1, 1974.)

Additional progress towards the normalization of Northern Ireland affairs was made in December, 1973, when the Tripartite Talks on Northern Ireland were held by representatives of the British Government, the Government of the Republic of Ireland and the Executive-designate (head of the Assembly) of Northern Ireland. The conferees agreed to the formation of a Council of Ireland, to have equal representation from the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland. The Council's goal is to be considered for "the best utilization of scarce skills and resources, the avoidance of unnecessary duplication of effort, and the encouragement of complementary rather than competitive effort where this is advantageous to agriculture, commerce and industry." The Council further agreed that "persons committing crimes of violence, however motivated, in any part of Ireland should be brought to trial irrespective of the part of Ireland in which they are located."

Policy Statements reported on Prime Minister Heath's February address to the National Press Club in Washington, D.C. The Prime Minister spoke of relations between the European Community and the U.S., especially in the areas of trade, monetary reform and European defense. He stated that Britain and the whole European Community seek to fortify their relationship with the U.S., "to make it strong and durable, to take account of the shifts and changes of the past few years, the effect of which should not be overlooked: and to find common solutions which meet your needs and interests as well as our own."

British Records, published 18 times during 1973 by the British Information Service, is "a review of British Affairs" which briefly outlines the government position on current developments. Topics covered throughout the year included the European Community, the energy crisis and continuing conflict in Northern Ireland.

Today's British Papers and British Weeklies reprinted excerpts from daily or weekly leading liberal, independent and conservative newspapers on day to day events. Interests is not confined to domestic affairs, but includes a wide range of international topics. Throughout the year major items of interested included: Northern Ireland, the British economy, terrorist activities, the Watergate scandal, and at the end of the year, concentration on developments in the Middle East, the oil embargo, the coalminers strike and related industrial developments.

Radio Newslines and TV Newsbriefs are on topics of day to day interest. British Information Service also disseminated press releases and numerous pamphlets, including: The New British System of Taxation, Political Co-operation by the Member States of the European Communities, Britain and the Commonwealth, and Northern Ireland.

Press Releases

Single Copies

Press releases disseminated by D. Parke Gibson International, Inc., on behalf of Guyana were concerned for the most part with internal affairs of the nation, such as health services, road construction, elections and education.

A July release reported on Guyana's new membership in the Inter-American Institute of Agricultural Sciences. Speaking of Guyana's agricultural development efforts, Ambassador Fred Talbot stated that Guyana's membership in the Institute offers "hope for even greater scientific and technical co-operation, not only between Guyana and the Institute, but also between Guyana and member countries of the institute." Ambassador Talbot saw this cooperation leading to "a realistic attempt to improve the quality of life for our predominantly rural population and thus alleviate our unemployment problems."

Hong Kong Cable is a monthly newsletter which publishes trade figures and information issued by the Hong Kong Government. Through October, 1973, the newsletter reported a continuing expansion of foreign trade, with "imports totaling $4.5 billion, an increase of 28.2%, exports accounting for $3.1 billion, a rise of 22.8%, and re-exports amounting to $1 billion, a rise of 56.8% over the first ten months of 1972." In addition, the Bureau of Census and Statistics in Hong Kong reported that the colony has doubled its gross national product in recent years, by increasing from $2.2 billion in 1966 to $4.6 billion in 1972.

Other topics included:

HK ECONOMY - "In an address before a group of leading businessmen attending a financial forum in Tokyo, Mr. James Bish, Vice President of the Chase Manhattan Bank and the Regional Director for South and Southeast Asia praised Hong Kong as one of the most sophisticated economic structures in the world. He noted that Hong Kong has an 'absolutely untarnished and unbroken history of flexibility and adaptability'."

LAND FOR INDUSTRY - "In a move aimed at attracting more technological orientated industry to Hong Kong, the government is looking into the possibility of setting aside more industrial land for development. Mr. C.P. Haddon-Cave, the Financial Secretary cited the recent five acre site on Tsing Ti Island that was set aside for the automotive industry as an example. He pointed out that the ideal approach might be joint ventures between overseas firms with sophisticated technological knowledge and Hong Kong firms with local knowledge and backing from the resources of the local financial system."

H.K. ECONOMIC POLICIES - "At a luncheon conference held in Singapore during July, Mr. Jim McGregor, Deputy Director of the Commerce and Industry Department pointed out that 'Hong Kong is possibly the only territory still faithful to liberal economic policies of free enterprise and free trade -- a pretty rare event these days.' Mr. McGregor also pointed out the lack of restrictions on potential investors and the freedom that an investor has in raising capital through the local banking system. In addition Mr. McGregor noted the low tax rate of the Colony (15%) and the high productivity of the workers as additional favorable factors. At present nearly 300 international companies have set up individual plants in Hong Kong."

Hong Kong Enterprise, Hong Kong Apparel and Hong Kong Toys are full-color catalogs of Hong Kong products and listings of manufacturers which the registrant disseminated to further export trade.

Various

The Indian Investment Centre disseminated Economic News Digest, a monthly newsletter which contains information from the Indian news media regarding economic matters of current interest to U.S. investors.

Some of the items featured during 1973 follow:

CANADIAN LOAN - "Canada will provide India with an additional $3 million in loan funds to accelerate its program of exploration and development of oil and natural gas. . . . Canada had agreed to provide a $3 million line of credit annually over a five year period to assist the Indian program. Because of India's increasing need for energy and the speed up of the program which requires more equipment and services, Canada agreed to double the allocation to $6 million."

FOOD SURPLUS - "In a mid-year review of the Indian economy the National Council of Applied Economic Research, a highly reputed professional organization in India, has forecast that the increase in food production this year would not only be sufficient to meet the needs of the higher population but would leave some surplus for buffer stock."

INDUSTRIAL INCENTIVES - "A bill introduced in the Lower House of the Indian Parliament in the first week of September provides for a 20 per cent initial depreciation for machinery or plant installed after March 31, 1974 in 22 selected industries. . . . The initial depreciation allowance will replace the development rebate which is being withdrawn from May next year. The new concession has been extended not only to encourage the growth of new industries but also to help expansion of certain existing industries. The bill also provides tax concessions for encouraging industries in backward areas and for promotion of research and development and exports."

U.S. INVESTMENT POTENTIAL - "A U.S. trade mission of 12 members visited India in April to explore prospects of U.S. investments and to stimulate faster trade relations. Specifically the mission looked into the requirements of the Indian railways for machinery that could be supplied from U.S. International Development Agency has loaned $75 million for modernization program of Indian railroads."

Other items disseminated by the Indian Investment Centre included releases entitled Foreign Collaboration and Joint Ventures, and Streamlined System for Industrial Licensing.

On behalf of the Committee of European Shipowners, Vincent Gerrard Barnett sent a letter to the Chairman of the U.S. Senate Subcommittee on Foreign Commerce and Tourism, setting forth the Committee of European Shipowners' position on Bill S.2576: Non-national carrier rate regulation.

Throughout 1973, Vincent A. Demo sent three letters to U.S. Government officials on behalf of the New York Committee of International Committee of Passenger Lines. The letters, addressed to the U.S. Customs Bureau, Senate Merchant Marine Subcommittee and the Federal Maritime Commission, expressed the opinion of the International Committee on proposed legislation affecting the shipping industry.

The European Community Information Service disseminated numerous publications throughout 1973 on behalf of the Commission of the European Communities, Brussels, Belgium. European Community News is a fortnightly newsletter publication which reports on developments in the European Community. Several articles in European Community News were devoted to the discussion of a proposed "European Union." European Community Commission planners project that by 1980 member nations will pursue common policies in the areas of social, regional, environmental and industrial development, and energy resources and consumption.

Goals to be achieved in pursuit of such a union include: the establishment of a "Community identity" toward the rest of the world; development of a "European center" for vocational training; balanced economic growth; decrease of urban congestion; and the foundation of a "solid industrial base" in the Community.

European Community, a monthly magazine, publishes current news events relative to the Community, with a good deal of attention devoted to international relations. An article entitled "What Europe Is About", from a speech by Vice President of the Commission of the European Communities Christopher Soames, advocates agreement on a single European voice in world affairs. "We cannot be one of the mightiest industrial complexes, the largest trading unit, the richest holder of currency reserves in the world and not live up to the global responsibilities for peace and prosperity that fall on us by virtue of that potential power. It can be no purpose of ours to be an economic colossus yet a political pygmy. The time has come for us to play an adult political role in the world: a role that will demand common expression of a European policy in foreign affairs."

An article entitled "Britain's Second Thoughts" described the reaction of the British public to a year in the European Community. A mood of "Eurogloom" prevailed as polls indicated that half the population still opposed British membership, and many who originally favored the idea had been disillusioned. To a large extent, the unfavorable reaction was attributed "to the public's strong suspicion that EC membership has contributed to this year's spiraling prices, especially of food." EC supporters within the Government, however, claimed that the Community was being made a "scapegoat" for Britain's domestic problems, and say that thus far EC membership had an "absolutely negligible" effect on prices.

Another article, "How Common Is Common," discussed trade policies within the Community. "The usual journalistic synonym for the European Community is the Common Market, but is this term justified? The Community became a customs union, with no internal tariffs and a common external trade policy vis-a-vis the rest of the world, five years ago. It is still not, however, a single market in which people, goods, services, capital, and companies enjoy complete freedom of movement."

Pamphlets disseminated by the European Community Information Service include:

Questions and Answers About the European Community - In question and answer form, this booklet explains the history, organization, policies and goals of the European Community.

The United States and the European Community: Their Common Interests - This booklet deals with trade, monetary and defense policies, and attempts to put these issues into the perspective of common interest of the United States and the European Community.

Commercial Policy of the European Community - This brochure explains the common commercial policy which exists within the European Community, and the Community's position on external trade arrangements.

European Community: Background Information and European Community: Agricultural Background Information are irregularly published newsletters containing general information of interest to the European Community. The press releases and radio scripts are concerned with general European Community news which would be of interest to the United States audience.

On behalf of the Pan-American Coffee Bureau, Samuel E. Stavisky & Associates, Inc., publishes a newsletter, World Coffee Information Center. The newsletter consists of news releases from the Coffee Bureau and articles reprinted from various other publications, such as The Financial Times, the Journal of Commerce, and National Food Situation, all concerned with coffee production and international trade.

The European Free Trade Association Bulletin is published nine times per year by the European Free Trade Association, an organization of the nations of Austria, Finland, Iceland, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland and Liechtenstein.

The Bulletin is circulated in the United States by Martin S. Weiss, d/b/a the D.C. Occupational and Training Center.

The Bulletin reports on trade and international economic developments. Articles such as the following have been included during 1973:

- "Transitional Arrangements for EFTA Trade in 1973 and Thereafter"
- "Norway and the European Communities"
- "EFTA Trade in 1972"
- "The Creation and Future of the European Trade Union Confederation"
- "EFTA Industry Looks At European Trade"
- "EFTA Record"
- "EFTA Industrial News"

IRELAND

REPUBLIC OF IRELAND

Industrial Development Authority - Ireland	Ireland Industry News Pamphlets Advertising	8500 Various Various

Published six times during 1973, Ireland Industry News is a newsletter which reports the growth of industry and foreign investment in Ireland. The September, 1973 issue reported that the European Economic Community Commission in Brussels determined the whole of Ireland to be a "peripheral" region, meaning the area is industrially underdeveloped. This means that Ireland "will continue to have a free hand in determining the amount of state financial assistance it offers to attract industry to its regions," without being limited by the "ceiling on state financial aids" set by the European Economic Community Commission on developed areas. The decision is very important to Ireland since "it increases the attractiveness of the country as a location for foreign firms seeking to set up manufacturing facilities within the European Common Market."

The October, 1973 issue of the newsletter reported on statements by Ireland's Minister for Industry and Commerce Justin Keating, who expects American industry to account for a large part of foreign investments and 50% of the projected 55,000 new jobs to be created in manufacturing in Ireland between 1973 and 1977. The U.S. has been a major investor in Irish industry, having invested $207 million in 134 American established manufacturing plants since 1960. For its part, Ireland offers the "most attractive package of incentives in Europe, including: 15 years exemption from taxes on export profits with repatriation of such profits, and non-repayable cash grants towards the cost of the fixed assets and the training of workers."

Mr. Keating said that Ireland is interested primarily in attracting industries searching for a base in Europe from which to serve the European market.

Industrial Development Authority also disseminated numerous pamphlets concerning industrial incentives designed to attract foreign investment, such as: Tax Relief for Export Profits, Why Companies Locate Manufacturing Plants In Ireland and Guide to the Submission of Industrial Proposals.

In addition, Industrial Development Authority placed newspaper and magazine advertisements which offer information concerning the advantages and assistance available to industrial investors in Ireland.

News of Northern Ireland reported to potential investors that Northern Ireland is experiencing continued industrial growth and development, despite recurring violence in the area. Industrialists and trade unionists state that the four years of disorders in Northern Ireland "have helped it to achieve an economic boom in which industrial production has jumped by 21% since 1969." The violence appears to have "stimulated a spirit of cooperation" between management and labor. Northern Ireland agent in Great Britain Sir Harry Jones states: "Instead of deserted factories, absenteeism, lack of confidence, idle machinery, we have had full production, amazingly low absenteeism, work people in the most difficult areas clocking in with staggering regularity and determination. Our industrial relations are on the whole excellent. Economic growth has been maintained. New investment is going ahead."

ISRAEL

World Zionist Organization -	The Israel Digest	8000
American Section, Inc.	Press Releases	120

The Israel Digest is a bi-weekly newspaper publication, reporting "news of Israel - direct from Israel." The Digest reported on various aspects of Israeli politics, international relations and daily events. Topics of major interest during 1973 were relations with neighboring Arab states, problems of immigration, the 25th Anniversary celebration of the State of Israel, and the October war. Some of the articles published during 1973 cover the following points.

"Challenges of the Next 25 Years" recounted the achievements of the State thus far, and the needs which continue to arise. The problems and shortcomings prevalent today, according to this article, include: Israel's dependence on increased immigration from the Americas and Western Europe to become the center of the Jewish people; absorption of immigrants; the gap between the living standards of ordinary workers and the upper strata; the problems of Israel's Arab citizens; and the unstable peace.

"Will Israel and the European Common Market Reach Agreement?" explains the purpose of an October, 1973 meeting between the two sides. Israel, according to this article in The Israel Digest, has consistently sought affiliation with the European Economic Community (EEC) because of her large volume of trade with EEC nations. In 1972, approximately 37% of Israeli exports were to such nations, and well over 50% of her imports were purchased from EEC. This amounted to a $600 million gap in the Common Market's favor.

"In the past, the Market has refused to go beyond a rather restricted and temporary bilateral agreement, under which custom rates on much of the trade in both directions were reduced considerably." This rate reduction is essential to Israel's efforts to exports more goods, in order to pay for "large and unavoidable imports." Israeli officials, therefore, "openly welcomed the EEC Council of Ministers' decision to open negotiations with Israel, as well as with several other Mediterranean countries, on the establishment of 'free trade zones' for industrial products. Ultimately, the objective is to eliminate all restrictions on the free interchange of manufactured goods between the countries concerned."

In a November, 1973 article, "Facts About the Cease-Fire", The Israel Digest reported that the U.N. Security Council resolution of October 22 provided for an in-place cease-fire, and negotiations for the establishment of a durable peace in the Middle East. The Israeli Cabinet immediately accepted the proposal, including the call for an immediate exchange of prisoners of war, "on conditions of reciprocity." The Digest states that the cease-fire resolution was adopted only because Israeli forces were gaining ground in the fighting: "So long as the Arabs stood a chance of winning, the fighting could go on, but as soon as disaster stared Sadat in the face, he and his Soviet backers insisted on a cease-fire." Israel complied with the cease-fire, but, according to the article, was faced with artillery barrages, tank attacks and commando raids by Egyptian forces. Fighting again erupted, and Israeli forces completed the encirclement of the town of Suez, cutting the Egyptian Third Army off from supply or escape routes. Again the Egyptians, defeated in battle, appealed to the Security Council, although they had not complied with the provisions of the previous resolution. In an unprecedented move, Israel allowed supplies to be delivered to the Third Army. In closing, Digest states: "The obligations, under the Geneva Convention, to give names of prisoners of war at the earliest moment and repatriate wounded prisoners as soon as they are fit to travel is unconditional. Israel has complied meticulously with the first requirement, although, at the time of writing, Nov. 4, neither Egypt nor Syria has done so, and Israel is ready to carry out the second (without limiting the numbers) on condition of reciprocity."

The article "What Lies Ahead for the Economy" states that the outlook for all nations of the Middle East was changed by the October war. Israelis can expect full employment, even a labor shortage, to continue because the tense political situation will probably require "thousands upon thousands" to remain mobilized. The armaments industry must grow and "prepare new masses of weapons" to match the power of Syria and Egypt. "Social needs will not grow smaller. Immigration is continuing, housing must be provided for the many Israelis growing up and establishing their own families, and pockets of poverty cannot be ignored." In attempting to avoid "inflationary pressures", the government will absorb purchasing power "during the next twelve months, through compulsory and voluntary loans, higher import levies, higher customs and sales taxes, lower subsidies. In this manner, the people will pay the cost of the war. As long as this is clear to all Israelis, the public may safely be expected to support all measures taken: defense is something the Israeli realizes must be paid for."

Press releases issued by the World Zionist Organization - American Section, Inc., were written on topics of interest to or concerning the activities of American Jews, such as:

"Full cooperation with the Israel Emergency Fund of the United Jewish Appeal is being intensified since the outbreak of the Yom Kippur War by the Torah Education Department of the World Zionist Organization Funds collected in Jewish Day Schools and Yeshiva High Schools for Israel are being turned over to the Emergency Fund of the U.J.A."

"The Wall Street Journal was hailed by Mrs. Charlotte Jacobson, Chairman of the American Section of the World Zionist Organization, for its editorial of October 16th which said that the 'United States would be making a serious blunder if it let its policy (on the Middle East War) be swayed too much by the oil cut-off threat' of the Arab states."

"Thirty American college students between the ages of 18 and 25 will leave for Israel in September to take a year of intensive Judaic studies at the Hayim Greenberg College of the Department of Education and Culture of the World Zionist Organization."

"One thousand and eighty Americans will leave this month to spend seven or eight weeks in intensive educational programs sponsored by the Education and Culture Department of the American Section of the World Zionist Organization. . ."

Throughout 1973, the Jamaica Industrial Development Corporation disseminated information concerning industrialization and the opportunities for growth and profit in Jamaica. The goal of the Jamaica Industrial Development Corporation is the "establishment of labor-intensive industries to meet the demands of the country's growing pool of skilled and semi-skilled labor. It is also placing considerable emphasis on attracting and developing industries with export potential."

Materials disseminated during 1973 include:

Jamaica Island of Industrial Opportunity - "Industrial incentive law provides for exemption from income tax for a period of up to ten years to qualified industries locating in urban areas of the island. For approved industries locating in specially designated developing areas, this period of exemption can be extended up to as much as fifteen years. The law also provides for relief from customs duties and tonnage tax on machinery and equipment (including office equipment) and employee welfare facilities." Jamaica's Export Industry Encouragement Law provides incentives for manufacturing industries which produce goods for export only, including: 10-15 years exemption from income tax; relief from import duties and tonnage tax on raw materials and supplies necessary for production.

The publication Economic Survey Jamaica 1972 reported that the Jamaican economy, while experiencing some expansion, generally suffered adverse effects for several reasons, including: "declining inflows of private capital investment in the mineral sector, depression in the world market for aluminum, change of government, instability of the international monetary environment and persistent inflationary pressures in Jamaica's major trading partners."

In addition, the Jamaica Industrial Development Corporation disseminates an Information Series of eight brochures designed to assist "persons or organisations interested in industrial development and investment in Jamaica." The brochures are entitled: Opportunity, Incentives, Utilities, Labour, Finance, Duties & Taxes, Establishing, and Living Here.

Arnold & Palmer & Noble issued press releases throughout the year on behalf of the Japan Trade Center - San Francisco, for the most part encouraging the export of U.S. goods to Japan. Some of the 1973 releases were entitled:

"Idaho Cattlemen Told of Japan's Demand for Beef"
"Japan - Growing U.S. Customer and Investor"
"JETRO Official Sees Bright Prospects for Rocky Mountain - Japanese Trade"

Daniels & Houlihan, on behalf of the Japan Lumber Importers Association, submitted statements to government officials and trade groups concerning proposed legislation which would prohibit or restrict log exports from the U.S.

The Japan Trade Center - San Francisco, disseminated the JETRO Marketing Series of nine booklets reporting trade and economic information. The Series is designed "to fill in some of the gaps in information by providing a general introduction to the Japanese market, for example, its size and growth potential, distribution, pricing and other topics, and by providing practical suggestions on how to export to and increase exports to Japan." The booklets are entitled:

- "Japan As An Export Market"
- "Using Trading Companies In Exporting to Japan"
- "Publications on Japanese Market"
- "Planning for Distribution in Japan"
- "Retailing in the Japanese Consumer Market"
- "The Japanese Consumer"
- "Sales Promotion In the Japanese Market"
- "Doing Business In Japan"
- "Survey of Potential Machinery Market In Japan"

Trade and Industry of Japan is a monthly magazine publication of the Japan External Trade Organization, Overseas Public Relations Division, designed to provide foreign businessmen with information on the Japanese economy, life style, and trade needs. Each issue contains items under the following headings: marketing study, consumer potential, products and technologies, trade policies and regulations, and MITI (Ministry of International Trade and Industry) information. There are also special feature items in each issue, such as: "Numerical Controlled Machine Tools Improving But Slow In Dispersion"; "Packaging Experiencing Automated Handling"; "Commercial Banking Is Aim of International Advance".

U.S./Japan Outlook is a "digest of American views of Japan." This magazine was published three times in 1973, and contained such items as: "Japan's Role In A New World Order"; "Japan Sets Out to Remodel Itself"; "Change and Ferment - The New Japan"; "Japan: Market for American Goods"; and "Japanese Business Customs".

U.S. - Japan News Digest, published by the Japan Trade Center, New York, reports on trade and investment possibilities, expanding Japanese markets, and the effect of growing industrialization on the Japanese way of Life. Articles in the Digest during the past year included: "Tanaka Offers Plan to Remodel Japan"; "Foreign Affiliates Show Upward Trend"; "First 'Investment In USA' Seminars Held In Japan"; "Japan's Private Investments Overseas Top $4,465 Billion"; and "Japan Enjoys A Gourmet Growth - Changed Diets Make 'Big' Population".

The Japan Trade Center of Los Angeles issued a Newsletter in July 1973, which focused attention on steps taken by Japan to liberalize foreign trade and investments, including: "decreasing the number of commodities under the import quota system, decontrolling capital investment, simplifying import procedures, reducing the import tax rate and easing finance possibilities for importers." Another article in the Newsletter cited a speech delivered before the San Diego Chamber of Commerce Trade Seminar by the Director General of the Japan External Trade Organization, Mr. Akira Yasui. Mr. Yasui cited two factors, the devaluation of the dollar and a change in the Japanese life style, which have increased the demand for imported products. He stated further that Japan had revised its trade policies, in an effort to "reduce the present U.S. deficit from where it now stands. We all agree that at present there is not a reasonable balance, and that it would be much better for both our countries if the trade balance were improved through increased U.S. exports to Japan, rather than a decrease in Japan's exports to the U.S."

The Public Relations Board, Inc., disseminated Japan Tradeletter Hotline, a monthly publication which included articles on U.S.-Japan trade and investment policies, trade fairs and Japan's balance of payments. The August, 1973 issue of Hotline stated that Japan's Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI) had proposed "a major change in direction of Japanese policies on international trade and industry." Stating that "the thinking emphasizing free competition among enterprises is unacceptably obsolete," MITI's head advocated operating under a new doctrine "which restricts freedom to some extent and calls for stronger governmental intervention in economic life while seeking participation by the people."

Other items featured in Japan Tradeletter Hotline included:

"Japan Records $1 Billion Trade Deficit - Trade figures for the first half of Japan's fiscal year - April through September - registered a deficit of $1.1 billion. Imports totaled $19 billion while exports came to $18.2 billion. Imports were up 69.9 percent over the same fiscal 1972 period."

"Trade With Japan Week Marks New U.S.-Japan Trade Goals - 'Trade With Japan Week,' November 2 through 9, marks new U.S.-Japan trade goals as both countries seek to stimulate the expansion of U.S. exports to Japan and Japanese investments in U.S. production facilities."

"JETRO Will Be Strengthened to Promote International Cooperation - The Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI) plans to recognize the Japan External Trade Organization (JETRO) to promote its foreign trade policies aimed at international cooperation. JETRO will have power to grant loans and to invest in development-import projects in developing countries. It will work with both Japanese and foreign firms. The Overseas Trade Development Association will merge with JETRO."

Public Relations Board, Inc., also disseminated one issue of U.S./Japan Outlook, and numerous news releases, usually concerning trade missions or exhibits.

Ruder and Finn offices in New York, California and Texas disseminated releases on behalf of the Japan Trade Center, reporting developments in Japan and items of interest concerning U.S.-Japan relations. Such items included:

"Akira Yasui, Director General, Japan Trade Center/L.A. Calls for Greater U.S.-Japan Trade Cooperation" -- Mr. Yasui spoke at the second annual U.S.-Japan Economic Relations Symposium held in Los Angeles, with the theme "Coordinating the Economies of the United States and Japan." Mr. Yasui cited improved economic relations between the two countries, the result of "a more equal trade balance, the revaluation of our currencies, reduced tariffs, liberalized foreign investment regulations and increased efforts on the part of representatives of Japanese and American government and business."

"U.S. Farm Products Key Survival of Japan's 108 Million" -- "Japan, which once boasted almost complete self-sufficiency in agricultural supply, has in the last decade slowly but steadily come to depend more and more on imports, mainly from the U.S."

"Various measures are being contemplated by the government to fight the possible future food shortage, but the fact that Japan's 108 million population look to the U.S. as a major supplier of their food is not expected to change in the immediate future."

Sydney S. Baron & Company, Inc., distributed various releases and booklets on behalf of the Electronic Industries Association of Japan. These materials emphasize the impact of international trade on the standard of living in the U.S. Two of the booklets disseminated during 1973 were The American Consumer's Stake In International Trade and Imports Of Electronic Products and The $20 Billion Import Protection Racket.

"The United States-Japan Trade Council, Inc., is a non-profit trade association with a membership of over 700 firms in the United States interested in fostering trade relations between the two countries." The materials disseminated by the Council, including news releases, reports and miscellaneous brochures, concentrated for the most part on the shifting trade pattern between the two nations. Testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee in May, 1973, Council Director Nelson A. Stitt predicted a sharp increase in Japan's import of goods from, and a slowing of its exports to, the U.S. A "prime economic objective" of the Japanese government in 1973 was to reduce the large balance of payments surplus which developed over the past five years. November statistics indicated that the 1973 balance of payments would end in a deficit, perhaps as high as $10 billion. This reversal is a result of the devaluation of the dollar and upward revaluation of the yen, and Japan's liberalization of trade and investment policies. "Japan's current barriers to imports are lower than those maintained by any other major country, including the United States," according to Director Stitt.

Progress being made towards a better balance of trade between the U.S. and Japan was threatened by U.S. restrictions on soybean exports. "Few economic measures taken by the United States in recent years have . . . made such an immediate impact on the Japanese public, since American agriculture supplies over 90 percent of soybean consumption" in Japan. The export controls on soybeans and 40 other agricultural products could prove to be "very damaging to the long-run interests of American farmers and to our own balance of payments." In July, 1973, the Council reported that "Japan is well on its way to becoming a $2 billion market annually for U.S. agriculture. The disruption of major elements of this trade in farm products will spur the Japanese search for, and development of, alternative sources of supply at home and abroad. It will encourage agricultural protectionists in Japan, and damage carefully cultivated commercial relationships. When commodity markets return to normal, American suppliers may therefore find that they have lost part of their biggest foreign market."

Federal Industrial Development Authority of Malaysia	Pamphlets Newsletter	Various Various
---------------------------------------------------------	-------------------------	--------------------

The Federal Industrial Development Authority of Malaysia disseminated numerous pamphlets and newsletter publications designed to attract foreign investment capital into Malaysia, including the following:

Malaysia: Your Profit Centre in Asia - "To encourage the establishment of more industries, maximum assistance is given to companies wishing to establish factories in Malaysia, and attractive incentives, tariff protection and preferential Government purchasing have been initiated to give added boost to Malaysia's Industrialisation programme.

"Malaysia offers a special programme of fiscal and other inducements to industrialists who invest in the country. Sound foundations have been laid, and excellent infrastructure facilities already exist."

Malaysia: A Basic Guidebook for Potential Investors is a "guide to businessmen and foreign investors who may be interested in investment opportunities in Malaysia. It is hoped that this basic data and information relating to the economy of the country, its investment climate and the infrastructural facilities available will assist industrialists in establishing manufacturing operations in Malaysia."

Other materials disseminated by Federal Industrial Development of Malaysia included:

Malaysia Industrial Digest, a quarterly newsletter publication;
Capital for Industry and Incentives for Industry, published by the Malaysian Industrial Development Finance Berhad;
All About Investment Incentives;
Guidelines for Getting Tariff Assistance;
Incorporating a Manufacturing Company

MEXICO

Ruder & Finn, Inc.	Mexican Thesis on Foreign Investment	110
	Development in Freedom: The Policy of Change in Mexico	210

Ruder & Finn, Inc., disseminated two booklets on behalf of the Government of Mexico.

Mexican Thesis on Foreign Investment contains a speech delivered by Under Secretary of Industry and Commerce Jose Campillo Sainz to the annual meeting of the Mexican-North American Businessmen's Committee. Campillo Sainz is quoted as saying that "foreign investment is acceptable and welcome when it accelerates and promotes our development and conforms to the objectives we have outlined, without ignoring the right of the investor to obtain a legitimate profit on his investment.

"This policy was established by the President of Mexico . . . when he . . . said: 'Foreign investment should not displace Mexican capital but complement it through association when this is considered useful. Mexican capital in any case, should handle such association with discernment, dignity and patriotism, and use this capital to modernize its plants. Accordingly, we shall give preferential welcome to foreign investors who, advised by Mexicans, will establish new industries, contribute to the continuous development of technology and manufacture of articles for export to all markets, including their own'."

Development In Freedom: The Policy of Change In Mexico consists of a speech to the Mexican Association of Sales and Marketing Executives by Under Secretary of the Presidency Fausto Zapata, who stated:

"Foreign investment is necessary to a country not endowed with abundant capital, but it would constitute an aggression against both our sovereignty and minimum economic rationality were we to adjust our laws to the needs or aspirations of foreign capital. The interests of large investors do not always coincide with those of the Nation, in which resides the full right to make its own interests, that is, the good of its people, the prevailing norm at all times.

"A development model that places all decisions in the hands of foreign capital and grants it exceptional privileges leads, ultimately, first to economic and then political dependence. It is, without exaggeration, a way to sell sovereignty on the installment plan.

"We have already suffered the effects of such a model and we are not disposed to reintroduce it. To the investor prepared to adjust his activity to our foreign investment legislation and norms, who comes as a businessman and not as a colonizer, Mexico offers the broad perspectives of a nation that for many years now has enjoyed uninterrupted growth and organic peace, not the calm imposed by force; decades of political stability and constitutional change, monetary stability and free convertibility; abundant labor, the availability of inputs, financial experience and a growing market. I believe . . . that there are not many countries where all these factors are found together at the same time."

Registrant disseminated COREMO Newsletter on behalf of Comite Revolucionario de Mocambique, COREMO, (Mozambique Revolutionary Committee) in July, 1973. Included in the Newsletter was a COREMO memo submitted to the United Nations General Assembly purportedly on behalf of the millions of Africans who are "languishing under Portuguese colonialism and racist white minority regimes in southern Africa." The articles continues:

"Who are these people in Mozambique, who desire and fight for liberation and self-determination? Our party, COREMO, has always relied on the African people as the basis of our struggle and has been guided by the principles of Pan Africanism. But the African people are by no means alone in this struggle. There are other national groups that are today faced with fascist laws and repression. There are, in fact, all those who are suffering because of the existence of a colonial regime in our country. Like African people they are under constant police surveillance and intimidation. Such people are part and parcel of the oppressed majority in our country, and their destiny is inseparable from that of our people. Whenever they wish, the Mozambique Revolutionary Committee gives them place alongside the African freedom fighters."

"The Portuguese and all those who make their living from the oppression and exploitation of our country and people are determined that Mozambique shall be ruled for the benefit of foreign interests. On the other hand, the Mozambicans are determined that their beloved country shall be ruled by the Mozambicans themselves and for the interests of the Mozambican masses. Briefly stated, the problem in Mozambique is one of self-determination as against foreign domination."

Warren Weil Public Relations disseminated material on behalf of the Colon Free Zone, Panama, a "100-acre commercial enclave of warehouses, manufacturing plants and display centers" which is served by 64 steamship lines, 29 air lines and several large trucking lines. The brochure, What You Should Know About Panama's Colon Free Zone, reports the advantages offered by the Zone as a "distribution and processing center serving Latin America and the Caribbean." Zone manufacturers who export their products benefit from a 90% reduction in taxes on profits. There are further incentives offered through the operation of public warehouses, management service firms, customer-leased or customer-owned buildings. This brochure describes the Panamanian labor force of some 350,000 as intelligent and easily trainable, with most of the workers fluent in both Spanish and English. "Components and raw materials from many countries are brought into Colon duty free and combined into finished products for markets in Latin America, the U.S. and Western Europe" by the low-cost Panamanian workers, then shipped out of the country thus benefiting from the 90% tax reduction.

	Portugal - An Informative Review	196
	Booklets	Various

Casa de Portugal's Portuguese language Noticias e Factos was issued 240 times during 1973. The publication was distributed to libraries, public officials, newspapers, schools, radio stations and private individuals. The English language News and Facts was issued nine times during 1973.

News and Facts consisted of letters and releases expressing Portuguese policy toward their African territories. Several items criticized U.N. papers or publications which used materials supplied by the "so-called liberation movements" in the African territories. Another issue covered by News and Facts was the January 20, 1973 assassination of Amilcar Cabral in Conakry, Guinea. According to this item Cabral had been Secretary-General of the PAIGC, which was characterized as "an anti-Portuguese terrorist organization based in Conakry." When news of the assassination was made public, "Portuguese agents" were blamed, although evidence later indicated that Cabral was killed by one of his own deputies in an internal power struggle.

Portugal - An Informative Review is a magazine publication containing information on a variety of topics, such as:

"Angola Increased Development - Angola was the first Portuguese State in Africa to suffer the bitter results of terrorist activity, but its progress has been untrammelled ever since in an evident refusal to accept adversity.

"A general survey of the last ten years gives a clear idea of the scope of this growth and we might even say that the subversive warfare let off an upsurge of energy which has proved able to promote development in all the sectors of activity in the largest Portuguese province."

"Foreign Investment in Portugal - During the year 1971 there was a clearcut intensive growth in foreign interest in investment projects concerning Portugal, thus continuing the trend of previous years. The positive attitude of the Portuguese Government and support from economic circles progressively orientated towards a closer approximation with Europe and integration in the European economic area, gradually met with a rapid, positive echo and response in foreign countries."

"Macau - A Tiny Spot on the Face of Vast China - In vast China there are sixteen square kilometers of Portuguese land. In 1557, as a reward for helping the Chinese against the pirates who then infested the China coast, Macau was given to Portugal. It comprises the Macau peninsula, the two Taipa islands and the island of Coloane. It is the smallest Portuguese province."

Other booklets disseminated by Casa de Portugal include:

The Committee for the Free Republic of South Moluccas, Inc. disseminated, on behalf of the Republic of South Moluccas in Exile, a reprint of the "Proclamation of the Republic of South Moluccas," originally broadcast in April, 1950, and information on the leaders and officers of the government-in-exile. The 1950 Proclamation declared the "Independence of the South Moluccas, de facto and de jure, with the political structure of a Republic, free from any political connection with the Negara Indonesia Timur and the Republic of the United States of Indonesia."

RHODESIA

Rhodesian Information Office	Rhodesian Viewpoint	4200-4400
	Rhodesian Commentary	5000-5200
	Booklets and Brochures	Various

Rhodesian Viewpoint is a monthly newsletter publication disseminated by the Rhodesian Information Office on behalf of the Government of Rhodesia. Items in the newsletter concerned relations with the neighboring state of Zambia, economic sanctions imposed against Rhodesia by the United Nations, and hearings conducted by the Africa Subcommittee of the U.S. House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee.

The May 31, 1973 issue of Rhodesian Viewpoint stated that hearings conducted by the House Africa Subcommittee were designed "to mount an attack on the continued presence and the activities of" the Rhodesian Information Office and its directors, Mr. Kenneth H. Towsey and Mr. John Hooper, in the U.S. Mr. Towsey told the Subcommittee: "We Rhodesians have a greater interest than anyone else in working out solutions to our own problems, and nobody has a larger interest than the minority of white Rhodesians, whose future in the country inevitably depends upon a fair and reasonable sharing of political power and economic opportunity with the black majority." Rhodesian Viewpoint claimed the support of one Congressman who reportedly accused the Subcommittee of trying to stifle dissenting views legitimately voiced by the Rhodesian Government through the Information Office. Citing other organizations which present differing views of Rhodesia in the U.S., the Congressman was quoted as stating that the Rhodesian Information Office "enjoyed no privileged position in comparison with proponents of other Rhodesian points of view by being permitted to operate in the United States. All points of view concerning the Rhodesian question are being presented to the American people. This unrestricted flow of information and ideas, a hallmark of our political system, will continue unless the Subcommittee on Africa succeeds in closing down the Rhodesian Information Office."

Regarding economic sanctions, in 1965 the U.N. instituted an embargo on trade with Rhodesia, and in May, 1973 attempted to extend the embargo to South Africa and Portugal, thereby putting more pressure on Rhodesia, which had been exporting goods through these two countries. The resolution to extend the embargo was vetoed by the U.S. and Great Britain in the U.N. Security Council. Rhodesian Viewpoint cited additional U.S. Congressional support and reported that one Senator condemned the embargo against Rhodesia as "one of the most unprincipled acts ever undertaken by our nation." This Senator further stated that the U.S. has "no business attempting to dictate the internal policy of other countries of the world."

Rhodesian Commentary is a monthly newsletter reporting developments in Rhodesia. Topics covered during 1973 included manufacturing growth, agricultural developments, African tribal customs, and education.

Articles in Rhodesian Commentary during 1973 included:

"Economic Survey Shows Vibrant And Healthy Position - The Economic Survey of Rhodesia for 1972 released by the Ministry of Finance presents a picture of a vibrant and healthy economy and not the ailing economy it has been represented to be in some quarters.

"Export earnings, which now exceed those achieved before the imposition of sanctions, rose strongly and contributed largely to the R. $62 million recovery in the balance of payments on current account."

"Sanctions Absurd - An American report published by the U.S. Industrial Council describes trade barriers against Rhodesia as 'the height of absurdity' - at a time when the U.S. is building trade links with Russia and Communist China.

"Stressing America's worsening internal minerals shortage - and its attendant dependence on imports - the report points out that 94 per cent of the world's supply of high-grade chrome is in Rhodesia."

The Rhodesian Information Office also disseminated copies of speeches, booklets and brochures dealing with a variety of topics:

SOUTH AFRICA

Information Service of South Africa	South African Scope	2400-2500
	Africa Institute Bulletin	5000
	Lantern	169
	South African Panorama	150
	Booklets and Reprints	Various

The Information Service of South Africa disseminated various publications on behalf of the Government of South Africa, reporting on current domestic and international issues, as well as historical and background information on South Africa.

South African Scope is a monthly magazine which contains news and feature items of South Africa. Articles in Scope throughout 1973 were concerned with such diverse topics as: tourist attractions in Durban; archaeological discoveries in Swaziland and Northern Natal; the increasing numbers of Bantu children attending school; and the new status of two Bantu nations as self-governing territories within the Republic of South Africa.

The Africa Investitute Bulletin, published by the African Institute of South Africa, purports to contain "factual information on topical matters which affect the well being of man in Africa." The Bulletin is concerned with social, political and economic developments on the entire African continent. An article entitled "Rule of the Rifle in Africa" portrays the political picture: "More than a third of Africa's 3000,000,000 people live under military dictatorship: the consequence of more than 30 coups d' etat since the independence era came to the continent. At present there are no fewer than 16 military governments in Africa. The continent also has 15 one-party states, the latest being Zambia. These figures reflect the fate of the democratic system in Africa. Even in many of the continent's multi-party states there is authoritarian rule and little room for democratic institutions."

In the field of foreign trade, the discovery of oil is of great importance, as evidenced in the Bulletin article "African Oil and Power Politics," which states: "Discoveries of huge oil deposits in a few states have made crude oil the biggest mineral earner of foreign exchange in the continent. North Africa alone provides about one-third of Western Europe's oil. And with this newfound wealth has come a new political weapon in Africa: for today oil is a trump card in the hands of states such as Libya which would otherwise be doomed to economic stagnation. At present the world is experiencing an energy crisis and this is playing into the hands of oil producing countries."

Another issue of the Bulletin contained an editorial comment on the background of terrorist activities in Southern Africa. "While the terrorists and their sympathizers represent the action of the terrorists as a struggle for freedom from White domination sight is often lost of the forces behind the terrorist movements. Without Red Chinese and Russian aid which now includes the supply of sophisticated weapons to terrorists the terrorist leaders hardly would be able to continue their attacks against the hated 'White South'.

"It is well known Communist strategy to exploit any conceivable, real and potential tension among the inhabitants of territories in which the Communists are seeking a foothold....It suits the Red Chinese and Russian attempts to gain control over Southern Africa to represent the problems of Black-White relations on the subcontinent as a struggle for freedom by the suppressed blacks."

Lantern, a quarterly "Journal for Knowledge and Culture," contained a diversified selection of articles on art, theatre, music, history and travel.

South African Panorama, a large monthly full-color pictorial magazine of news articles and features on South Africa, reviewed a variety of topics including the jewelry industry, the Afrikaans language, witchdoctors, mining and refining gold, and advances in the fields of agriculture, industry and education.

The Information Service of South Africa disseminated numerous other publications throughout 1973, including books, booklets, and reprints on a variety of topics. Some of these publications were:

Tribalism

Progress Through Separate Development

Nutrition and the Bantu

Cooperation for Development in Southern Africa

Art In South Africa

University Education in Republic of South Africa

Fact Sheet on Sweden

Various

News From Sweden

Fact Sheet on Sweden deals with various aspects of social, economic and political life in Sweden. Samples of articles included throughout 1973 follow:

"Taxes in Sweden - The Swedes are among the most heavily taxed people on this earth The chief source of State revenue is the income tax on individuals and businesses, whereas the local authorities derive most of their revenue from the proportional tax on income. Revenues from indirect taxes, virtually all of which go to the State, stem from two main sources: the value added tax (TVA) and excises on several commodities."

"Swedish Foreign Policy - Sweden's foreign policy of neutrality does not rest on international treaties and agreements nor is it supported by clauses in her Constitution. This policy is based on the conviction held by an overwhelming majority of Swedes, that it affords the most practical means for safeguarding the nation's vital interests. The tradition of neutrality has also firm roots among the Swedish people."

"Swedish Trade Policy - Sweden is highly dependent on foreign trade for its economic growth and has a long tradition of extensive wide-spread economic relations. From having been, in past centuries, mainly a supplier of iron and forest products, the country has diversified its industry and is today manufacturing and exporting a wide range of machinery, transport equipment and other goods of high quality."

News From Sweden publishes current events information. A January, 1973 issue carried news of developments in the Vietnam War, including Swedish opinion on U. S. activities there. Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme stated that American bombing activities in December 1972 were a "form of torture", and called upon President Nixon "to cease the bombings which cause so much suffering and destruction and to renew the efforts to find a negotiated settlement which assures the rights of the Vietnamese to form their own future." After the signing of the peace agreement, Prime Minister Palme expressed the "great relief and satisfaction of the Swedish people" and stated: "Killing and destruction will now cease. The feeling of despair and hopelessness in the face of the madness and cruelty of war has lifted at last. We hope that this agreement will lay the foundation for peace, national self-determination and reconciliation."

Other items included in News From Sweden were:

"First Parliament Approval Given to New Constitution - A proposed new constitution has been presented by the Government to Parliament and has received the legislature's first approval. The new national code, a product of twenty years of deliberation by royal commissions, will increase the power of Parliament at the expense of the Government and will remove the few political powers still held by the king. The king, however, will remain the ceremonial head of state."

"Government Subsidizes Dailies to Keep Political Debate Alive - The Government support to the Swedish press in 1972 amounted to some $64 million-subsidies to newspapers had been decided earlier in order to preserve dailies that were in a weak economic position. The aim is to ensure the continued existence of a balanced political debate."

"Broadened Price Control Power Enacted In Anti-Inflation Move - The Parliament has passed an enabling act which will give the Government the power to introduce limited price controls similar to a price freeze on basic foodstuffs initiated January 1st by a Parliamentary decision."

TIBET

The Office of Tibet	News-Tibet	900
	Press Release	15

Two issues of News-Tibet were disseminated on behalf of His Holiness the Dalai Lama of Tibet. The first issue, in the form of a memorandum to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, called on that body to "put an immediate end to the sufferings of the Tibetan people in occupied Tibet; to see that China implemented and observed the U. N. resolutions on Tibet of 1959, 1961 and 1965; and to conduct an immediate plebescite in Tibet in keeping with U. N. resolutions which called for the right to self-determination of the Tibetan people." The second issue of News-Tibet discussed in more detail conditions that have developed since the 1949-1950 Chinese invasion of Tibet. "Aside from the incalculable destruction of cultural institutions and the deprivation of all freedoms, one of the uglier aspects of the Chinese occupation involves the indiscriminate incarceration, torture and humiliation of thousands of political dissidents in Tibet. At a press conference at Mussoorie in June 1959, the Dalai Lama observed: 'Forced labour and compulsory exactions, a systematic persecution of the people, plunder and confiscation of property belonging to individuals and monasteries and execution of certain leading men in Tibet - these are the glorious achievements of the Chinese rule in Tibet'.

A press release by the Office of Tibet in November 1973, concerned a tour of eleven European countries by the Dalai Lama. The press release described the Dalai Lama as "The living symbol of a peace loving country that was brutally destroyed by the Chinese. He reminds the Europeans and the world (of) the wanton destruction of a great ancient civilization, the massacre of tens of thousands of the Tibetan people whose only sin was that they desired to be left alone in peace, and of their own commitments voiced by their governments in the United Nations to support the Tibetan people's right to self-determination."

TRINIDAD & TOBAGO

Development Counsellors International, Ltd.	Press Release	1
Trinidad and Tobago Industrial Development Corporation	Newsletter	Various
	Booklets and Brochures	Various

The monthly Newsletter contained short items detailing the growth of small industries on Trinidad and Tobago, and the Industrial Development Corporation promotion of new industries. Articles were concerned with such topics as tourism, factory construction, assistance to small businesses and the granting of duty free concessions to new investors.

In addition to the Newsletter, the Industrial Development Corporation disseminated various other publications, which include the following:

A brochure entitled Industrial Incentives which outlined concessions designed to attract new industries, including duty free imports, an income tax holiday, special depreciation allowances, and pioneer status benefits. Additional attractions for new industries in Trinidad and Tobago include an export allowance, the availability of industrial sites, and special concessions granted the petro-chemicals industry. The brochure also stated that Trinidad and Tobago particularly welcome industries which "are founded on the consumption of indigenous raw materials, offer employment to a relatively large number of workers, replace sizeable imports and have potential for exporting their products."

A Businessman's Guide to Profit Opportunities in Trinidad and Tobago stated that the country has "all the ingredients of success" for new industry, such as: "a bountiful resource base including oil, natural gas and asphalt"; "long term economic and political stability and absolute respect for the Rule of Law"; and "high literacy, high per capita income, an industrial tradition, and a highly developed infrastructure."

Development Counsellors International, Ltd. disseminated one press release on behalf of the Trinidad and Tobago Industrial Development Corporation during 1973. The release was concerned with the performance of "contract work" by developing countries, and reported that several U. S. companies have sub-contracted work to Trinidad and Tobago. This arrangement is profitable to both sides, in that the U. S. contractor receives reliable, high quality and relatively low cost workmanship, while the developing country benefits by way of local entrepreneurship, skills, profits and jobs.

Sputnik, "a monthly digest of the best current Soviet writing," is disseminated on behalf of Mezhdunarodnaya Kniga, Moscow. It covered such topics as international relations, economy, science, engineering, medicine, culture, sports, cooking and education. Articles in Sputnik during 1973 included:

"Education in the Soviet Union"; "Metal Workers Become Dancers"; "From Our Reporter on the Moon"; "Concerns of Big Cities"; and "Soviet Coal Mines Today and Tomorrow."

Soviet Film is an illustrated monthly magazine devoted to the Soviet film industry.

Moscow News, a weekly newspaper publication of the Union of Soviet Societies of Friendship and Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries, reported on developments in every aspect of Soviet life. Texts of official documents and speeches on foreign or domestic policy, as well as theoretical discussions, were published in special supplements of Moscow News. The following are representative of the significant articles published in the 1973 issues of Moscow News

MID-EAST WAR - "Enjoying the support and patronage of imperialist circles, Israel has been for several years now constantly firing up the situation in the Middle East by its reckless aggressive actions. Disregarding the demands of world public opinion and of most of the world's states, trampling on the Charter and decisions of the U.N. and generally accepted norms of international law, the Israeli ruling circles have elevated violence and piracy to the rank of their state policy."

ECONOMIC RELATIONS - "The development of economic relations with all countries regardless of their social system is one of the most important foreign policies of the Soviet Union. This stems from the principle of peaceful coexistence of countries belonging to different social and economic systems."

U.S.-SOVIET RELATIONS - "When future historians analyze the present phase in Soviet-American relations, they will no doubt emphasize the dynamic nature of their development. In just over a year the two powers made a switch from 'cold war' confrontation to relations based on the principles of peaceful coexistence which the U.S.S.R. had always advocated. Altogether more than 20 treaties and agreements were signed in this short period. Taken as a whole, they offer a ramified pattern for the further development of commercial relationships and long-term cooperation between the two states."

Soviet Union is an illustrated monthly magazine which reports news of science, medicine, politics, art, sports, industrial advances and other areas of interest. An article entitled "The U.S.S.R. and Human Rights" concerned Soviet ratification of the United Nation's International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights and the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, and stated that this action proved the Soviet Union to be a "true champion of the noble idea of encouraging respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms." The article noted that none of the leading Western powers had ratified the covenants on human rights, "although they constantly pay lip service to human rights and fundamental freedoms."

Another article, "The Soviet Union and the Developing Countries", reported that world wide opinion recognizes the U.S.S.R. as a promoter of world peace. "With increasing frequency, each successive foreign policy step taken by our country is being evaluated abroad as a policy of promoting peace, a policy of friendship and all-around co-operation. People everywhere increasingly realise the simple truth that the Soviet Union, engaged in constructive effort, wants peace and good-neighbourly relations to prevail in the world. . . . The turn towards an international detente and a stable peace, which began on the initiative of our country and meets with hearty approval from progressive world opinion, is a concrete example of the Soviet Union's Leninist foreign policy course."

The Four Continent Book Corporation disseminated numerous books, periodicals and other materials on behalf of Mezhdunarodnaya Kniga, Moscow. In addition to works by Lenin, Marx and Engels, various other titles were also disseminated, including:

Marxist Philosophy

Socialism & Communism

Racism, An Ideological Weapon of Imperialism

U.S. Imperialism In Southeast Asia

Are Socialism and Capitalism Drawing Closer Together

Peking Provocation

The U. S. and Its Role In the Middle East Conflict

Porter International Company disseminated a bi-weekly newsletter, Soviet Business and Trade (formerly Soviet Business and Economic Report) on behalf of the TASS News Agency, Moscow. The newsletter is a joint publication of TASS and Porter International Company, designed to cover "the entire Soviet trade spectrum" and report on international economic and contractual relations.

	Vietnam	210
	(Illustrated)

Vietnam Courier is a monthly news magazine disseminated by China Books and Periodicals on behalf of Xunhasaba, Hanoi, Vietnam. The magazine reported on developments in North and South Vietnam, giving a great deal of attention to U.S. involvement in the area. Early in 1973 the magazines reported on American prisoners of war, with several stories on captured pilots, and on continued fighting in Cambodia and Thailand, torture in Saigon jails, the economic crisis and popular discontent in Saigon, farming and agricultural recovery and growth in the North, and occasional book reviews, always dealing with some aspect of the war. Each issue, of course, was severely critical of the U.S. role in Vietnam, and of the administration of President Thieu in the South. The following extracts demonstrate the general tone of the Vietnam Courier.

"In Hitler's Footsteps - Nixon, when he was a candidate to the U.S. presidency, proclaimed that peace was at hand. He even sent a personal message to the DRVN Prime Minister promising the signing of agreements. Nixon, when re-elected President, sent his B-52 heavy bombers to attack Hanoi. For each period of 3 days American aircraft - 130 B-52's and more than 500 fighter-bombers - poured on the DRVN the equivalent of a Hiroshima bomb.

". . . His (Nixon's) unrestrained barbarity had followed the violation of his pledges, and his crimes have been accompanied by a stream of lies

"Deceit, imposture, barbarity, mendacity, the Nixon policy has revealed its most striking features in broad daylight. But should one be surprised? In fact, those who know the man and have closely followed American policy in Viet Nam simply see their fears confirmed. One should be very naive indeed to believe that Nguyen Van Thieu - the dog's tail - could oppose the White House; and much cynicism is needed to argue that saturation bombings could facilitate peace proposals."

The February, 1973 issue of Vietnam Courier, in a regular feature column, "Our Monthly Comment," announced the signing of the peace agreement in this way:

"The blitzing by B-52's against Hanoi and Haiphong from December 18 to 29, 1972, having resulted in an aerial Dien Bien Phu, the Americans were forced to return to the conference table, and the Paris Agreement on Viet Nam was signed, putting an end to the longest and most difficult war in the history of the United States and restoring peace to the Vietnamese people, a peace which is so precious, for it goes together with independence, for which they have fought eighteen years."

"New Upsurge in Production in the DRVN - Welcoming the Paris Agreement, a new emulation drive in production is spreading in all economic fields in North Viet Nam.

"In agriculture, the growing of 5th-month rice, spring rice and industrial crops has been carried out in time. . . .

"In industry, thanks to quick repair work, electricity output has doubled compared to the same period last year. . . .

"In transport and communications, to overcome the aftermath of the war and bring traffic back to normal, Hanoi quickly built footbridges and pontoon bridges to serve the population during the Tet festival. . . .

"With regard to trade, its stability is clearly manifested in the fact that at Tet the market was supplied with all primary commodities at steady prices. . . .

"The fast pace of economic restoration after savage raids by B-52's and F-111's dropping 'smart bombs' on the one hand shows the correctness of North Viet Nam's wartime economic line, which involved efficient work in evacuation and dispersal, and on the other confirms the ineffectiveness of American sophisticated weaponry."

The October, 1973 "Our Monthly Comment" column has this to say about Viet Nam since the peace: "The 28th anniversary of the DRVN was celebrated on September 2, 1973 with peace reconquered. The wounds of war, and the country's economic and technical backwardness still represent great problems to be solved, but prospects for the future are encouraging. . . .While remaining on our guard against the maneuvers of American imperialism, our country can, from now on, enthusiastically devote itself to building socialism, and realize the dream cherished for decades by the people. . . .

"The same is true of the liberated zone of South Viet Nam where all the Saigon troops' attempts at encroachment over the last eight months have foundered against resolute ripostes from the population and its armed forces. The PRG has reaffirmed its sovereign right to take all necessary measures in the areas under its control for healing the wounds of war, reconstructing the economy and safeguarding the acquisitions of the revolution."

South Viet Nam In Struggle, a weekly newspaper publication, is the self-described "Central organ of the South Viet Nam National Front for Liberation." The main theme of the newspaper throughout 1973 was criticism of the U.S. and South Vietnam for alleged violations of the Paris peace agreement: "Instigated and supported by the United States, the Saigon administration has frenziedly stepped up its land-nibbling operations against many areas controlled by the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam while intensifying police and 'pacification' operations and 'purges' in a campaign of brutal repression and persecution against the people in the areas under its control. It continues to detain over 200,000 political prisoners in its prisons. At the Joint Military Commission and the Consultative Conference between the two South Vietnamese parties, the Saigon administration has always adopted an insolent and provocative attitude, clinging to its obstinate stand and causing a stagnation of the work of these bodies."

Typical articles in South Viet Nam In Struggle are: "Rice fever in Saigon and U.S. neo-colonialist genocide"; "U.S. Responsible for Saigon Breaches of Provisions on Prisoners"; "Cambodia: U.S. aggression design remains unchanged"; "Thieu's is an illegitimate and disloyal government."

Vietnam (Illustrated) magazine is a monthly publication which covers a wide range of topics from art to war recovery efforts. A sampling of 1973 articles follows.

INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY - "The Haiphong Cement Works . . . had been built in the late years of the 19th century. During the U.S. air war of destruction against the North, it was three times attacked by U.S. B.52s and on dozens of occasions raided by U.S. tactical jets. From the heaps of rubble, however, immediately after the U.S. had to stop its bombings, many shops and kilns were quickly restored and put back into use."

CHILE - The Vietnamese people are burning with indignation at the brutal schemes and acts of the Chilean reactionaries, henchmen of the U.S. imperialists, who carried out the anti-revolutionary coup-d'etat in Chile and murdered President Salvador Allende."

U.S. WITHDRAWAL - "The 18-year and 8-month war of aggression launched by U.S. imperialism against Viet Nam has ended. On March 29, 1973 a ceremony was held by Gen. F. C. Weyland, commander of the U.S. expeditionary corps, to say 'adieu' to this land. The U.S. command-flag which had fluttered over South Viet Nam for 10 years was folded back and, together with the last batch of American troops, left this country."

China Books and Periodicals also disseminated various booklets on behalf of Xunhasaba, Hanoi, during 1973.

The Late December 1972 U. S. Blitz in North Viet Nam - Prepared by the DRVN Commission for Investigation of the U. S. Imperialists' War Crimes in Viet Nam, this booklet begins by saying: "During the last days of 1972, the entire world anxiously focused its attention on North Viet Nam and especially Ha Noi (sic) capital city, targets to the most formidable blitz in the whole history of the U. S. air and naval war against the DRVN. For the first time, scores of B.52 'stratoforts' were unleashed on heavily populated districts of Ha Noi. Within 12 days, was unloaded there something like the equivalent of two A-bombs of the Hiroshima type."

Nixon's "Intensified Special War" in Laos - A Criminal War Doomed to Failure is published by the Central Committee of the Lao Patriotic Front. Its Preface states that "since the end of World War Two the U. S. imperialists prompted by their dream of world hegemony have schemed to turn Laos into a U. S. neo-colony and military base, liquidate the Lao revolutionary movement, enslave the Lao people, use Laos as a springboard to encircle and attack the socialist camp, in the first place the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam and the Chinese People's Republic, and at the same time use Laos as a 'shield' to check the spread of the revolution west of the Mekong river, first and foremost into Thailand, a U. S. neo-colony and military base."

Other booklets included: Serious Bankruptcy of Nixon Doctrine In Laos; Glimpses of Vietnamese Classical Literature; Third Congress of the Viet Nam Fatherland Front; A Quarter Century of Grim and Victorious Struggle.

YUGOSLAVIA

Yugoslav Information Center

Yugoslav Facts and Views
Books

Yugoslav Facts and Views is a newsletter publication disseminated on behalf of the Government of Yugoslavia. Two issues featured speeches by President Tito: an address to the General Assembly of the Federation concerning Yugoslavia's domestic and foreign policy and constitutional reform, and a speech on the occasion of the thirtieth anniversary of the Second Session of the Anti-Fascist Council of National Liberation of Yugoslavia.

An item on foreign investment in Yugoslavia reported that in the past two years, since investment laws were changed, the number of joint production firms created by Yugoslav and foreign investors had greatly increased. Economists point to Yugoslavia's 9% annual industrial growth rate in accounting for the sudden interest by investors. Yugoslav officials expressed the hope that the foreign capital would bring with it the latest developments in technology as a means of up-dating the production of goods for export.

The Yugoslav Information Center also disseminated various books during 1973, including the following:

The League of Communists of Yugoslavia in the System of Socialist Self-management - "The League of Communists of Yugoslavia may be described as the leading organized ideological-political force of the working class and other working people, a force both revolutionary and unified. Highlighting the role of the working class, it conducts the quest for socialism on the tenets of socialist self-management, and on the premise of equality, brotherhood and unity among the various peoples and nationalities comprising the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia."

The Yugoslav Federation - What Is It? - "The Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia is a federal state, a state community of peoples who have come together of their own free will, and of their socialist republics and socialist autonomous provinces; it is furthermore a socialist self-managed democratic community of working people and citizens, of equal peoples and national minorities. . . . It consists of six socialist republics (Bosnia & Herzegovina, Croatia, Macedonia, Montenegro, Serbia and Slovenia). Each republic is a state based on the sovereignty of the people and the power and self-management of the working class and all working people All nationalities living in Yugoslavia are equal in the exercise of their sovereign rights, apart from those guaranteed them by the federal and republic or province constitutions, in the communes which are the basic socio-political communities."

Yugoslavia's Economic Relations with Foreign Countries -

"The basic characteristic of Yugoslav foreign trade during the postwar period has been a constant deficit, i.e., more dynamic imports than exports, causing a growing discrepancy between exports and imports. This trend prevailed until 1972 when the dynamics were reversed with exports soaring and imports falling as compared to the previous year."

The principal purpose of Congress in enacting the Foreign Agents Registration Act was to require public disclosure by persons engaging in propaganda activities and other activities for or on behalf of foreign governments, foreign political parties, and other foreign principals, so that the Government and the people of the United States may be informed of the identity of such persons and may appraise their statements and actions in the light of their associations and activities. The emphasis of the Department of Justice in its administration of the statute has been toward the achievement of this purpose. In performing its functions, the Department has continued to rely upon its normal sources of information and upon the investigative efforts of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Registration under the Act does not imply recognition by the United States Government either of the de jure existence or legality of the foreign principal, nor does registration indicate approval of the United States Government of the propaganda material disseminated or of the activities of the registered agent.

Respectfully submitted,

Attorney General
