The sub-contractors made the payments to GUZZONE and others in order to secure construction and/or maintenance contracts for work being performed on projects for Corporation-1.

5. As part of the aforementioned tax evasion scheme, ANTHONY GUZZONE, the defendant (i) took delivery of cash totaling more than $1,300,000 from approximately five different sub-contractors; (ii) caused various sub-contractors to provide construction materials and services at GUZZONE’s personal residence worth more than $150,000; (iii) received ticket packages for the Super Bowl, including a package in 2016 costing approximately $7,950; and (iv) signed and caused to be filed with the IRS U.S. Individual Income Tax Returns, Forms 1040 (“Forms 1040”), for the tax years 2010-2017 that falsely and fraudulently omitted income in the form of unlawful payments made to him by sub-contractors during the 2010 through 2017 tax years.

Statutory Allegations

6. From in or about 2010 through on or about 2018, in the Southern District of New York and elsewhere, ANTHONY GUZZONE, the defendant, did willfully attempt to evade and defeat a substantial part of the income tax due and owing to the IRS by GUZZONE for the calendar years 2010 through 2017 by various means, including among others: (a) accepting cash payments from sub-contractors; (b) accepting free construction services and materials from sub-contractors; (c) accepting free Super Bowl tickets from sub-contractors; and (d) preparing and causing to be prepared, signing and causing to be signed, and filing and causing to be filed with the IRS, Forms 1040 for himself and his spouse that falsely and fraudulently omitted substantial amounts of income in the form of cash and in-kind unlawful payments paid to him by sub-contractors performing work on construction projects for Corporation-1.
